Willie and Floyd Mayweather (right), Kansas City, Mo., packing house workers, have every reason to smile. The Sinclair and Minnehoma oil companies have been ordered by the Sapulpa, Okla., district court to pay $7,000,000 to the brothers and their aunt, Mrs. Ozzie Lee, of Claremore, Okla. The money is owed as royalties for oil from property left the trio by the boys' aunt, Lete Kolvin, an Indian.

NEUTRALITY DEBATE STARTS IN SENATE

Troop Transports Will Follow in Wake of Armed Merchantmen, Sen. Vandenberg Declares

By WILLIAM B. ARDERY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (P)—The Senate began its historic debate on neutrality revision today, with Senator Connally (D-Tex.) urging the United States to reassert its right to freedom of the seas and Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) declaring that troop transports would follow in the wake of armed American merchantmen traveling to belligerent ports.

Before the chamber was a measure greatly broadened by the Senate Foreign Relations committee, of which Connally is chairman. To the House provision for the arming of merchant ships, the committee added another abolishing the Neutrality Act's prohibitions against sending such ships into belligerent ports or combat zones.

During a ninety-minute speech before packed galleries and grave-faced colleagues Connally asserted that the proposed revision "is a defense measure, not a war measure." He added that "the United States must claim its rights to the seas, its right as a free and equal nation among the nations of the earth."

Vandenberg, emphasizing each word, told his colleagues:

Vandenberg Predicts Transports
"When you arm a merchant ship and send her to a belligerent port she will be followed one day by another ship—a troop transport. I am trying to remember the transport as well as the merchant ship."

Prior to the opening of debate, Senate leaders told President Roosevelt at a White House conference that the broadened neutrality revision measure—which would carry out the chief executive's recommendations—probably would be approved by their chamber in less than two weeks. Opposition leaders generally said they had no intention of filibustering.

During the day the Foreign Relations committee made public recent testimony by Secretary of State (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Japanese and Russian Soldiers Clash on Far Eastern Frontier

Former Apparently Trying To Secure Prisoners, Moscow Asserts

SHANGHAI, Oct. 27 (P)—A raid by twenty Japanese soldiers across the tensely-patrolled Soviet-Japanese far eastern frontier, precipitating a clash in which both sides suffered casualties, was reported today by the official Soviet news agency, Tass.

Japanese officials here said they had no information of such a clash, which Tass said occurred four days ago.

The Russian account said the Japanese apparently were trying to

15 Bodies Found After Explosion in Kentucky Mine

Thirty-Eight Others Escape Injury in Daniel Boone Tragedy

DANIEL BOONE, Ky., Oct. 27 (P)—Barely burned bodies of fifteen miners trapped by an explosion in the Stirling Coal Company mine today have been reached by rescue squads.

Thirty-eight others in the mine at the time of the blast were rescued unharmed earlier.

Paul Gannon, general superintendent of the mine said the bodies were found but none had been brought to the surface.

Gannon said the men apparently were seized by the explosion and survivors, if any, were finished off by lethal gas.

Experienced mine men thought the blast was touched off by an electric spark, but an official version was delayed pending a report of state Mine Inspector Moss Patterson, of Lexington.

take prisoners. (Such a raid might be to gain information on Russian border dispositions.) After fighting with Russian patrols the Japanese had to withdraw, taking their wounded with them but leaving guns, rifles and cartridges behind, Tass declared.

The report received keen attention in view of a recent increase of tension along the far-flung frontier between Soviet Siberia and Japanese-controlled Manchukuo and Korea.

Strong Japanese reinforcements have been reported moving into northern and eastern Manchukuo as military circles and other factions in Japan have called for action against Russia in the far east and when the Red armies col-

President Makes Third Appeal to Lewis

NAZIS GAIN IN SOUTH

Rebuffed Twice, Roosevelt Pleads With Mine Leader To Reopen Mines

Declares "It Is Essential That the Mining of Coal Should Go on without Interruption"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (P)—Appealing to John L. Lewis for the third time to keep the captive coal mines running in the interest of national defense, President Roosevelt wrote the leader of the United Mine Workers tonight that "it is essential that the mining of coal should go on without interruption."

Mr. Roosevelt replied a short time after Lewis had rejected a second such request and had contended in a letter to the chief executive that the strike involving 53,000 workers was not impairing defense output.

In his letter, Lewis told the president that the fight was only between a labor union and the United States Steel Corporation, which, he said, was dominated by a "rich man named Morgan."

Scores J. P. Morgan
His reference was to J. P. Morgan, a director of the United States Steel Corporation, one of the steel companies which own the captive mines. In his second request, Mr. Roosevelt had suggested that Lewis keep the mines open pending an attempt to settle the dispute at a conference Wednesday with Myron C. Taylor, former chairman of the board of United States Steel. (Coal from the captive mines is not sold commercially, but is used to fire blast furnaces producing steel.)

The president had asked on Friday that Lewis recall his order for a strike Saturday midnight and the UMW chieftain had refused.

In tonight's appeal, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"For the third time your government through me asks you and the officers of the United Mine Workers to authorize an immediate resumption of mining."

Better Standard Of Living Sought By Sec. Perkins
NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (P)—A joint appeal for the expansion of the world's developed resources to create a good standard of living for all nations was made today by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia at the 1941 conference of the International Labor Organization.

To the 160 delegates of thirty-three nations who unanimously elected her conference chairman, Miss Perkins said:

"We do not live in a world of fully developed and unlimited resources. We know that there is not enough cotton produced in the world for each person to have the equivalent of three shirts, two pairs of overalls, half a dozen socks each year."

Our problem is that of finding some way to stretch existing resources and to develop new ones to produce a more abundant life for people who have suffered the privations of war, from Chungking to London."

Mayor LaGuardia said that the ILO's job was to set a living standard for all countries and that the job "has got to be done in terms of 'roastbeef', spaghetti, goulash and beef steak."

"I hope this meeting will not have a protocol but a program," he said. "This poor world has been protocolled to death and protocolled into war."

The meeting, first ILO conference since the outbreak of the war, was called to discuss labor issues raised

Johnstown Coal Miners Refuse To Strike on Orders from Lewis

Ignore Walkout Instructions and Return to Their Jobs

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Oct. 27 (P)—Union leaders failed to night to get defiant miners of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's "captive" Rosedale mine to agree to obey the strike orders of the United Mine Workers of America.

Ignoring the walkout instructions of John L. Lewis, UMW chieftain, several hundred of the men worked in the pit today. One report said 347 of the 475-man day crew checked in.

John Ghizzoni, international board members of the union, declared however, less than 200 of a day shift he estimated as exceeding 560 had worked and that only twenty of 300 reported tonight.

A hall in the Cambria city, a city ward, with a seating capacity of about 300 was crowded tonight by the miners.

Ghizzoni said "five or six men" in the audience had stood up and said they were going to work and (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Two-Way German Drive May Force Turkey into War

British Face Possible Nazi Thrust at the Suez Canal

LONDON, Oct. 27—Increasing indications were seen tonight that British armies in the middle east, ready for possible action against the Germans in the Caucasus, might be forced at the same time to oppose a two-way German thrust at the Suez canal.

Some quarters expressed the belief such a Suez drive would topple Turkey from the fence and broadened the whole amphibious theatre of the war.

Only scraps of news reached London from the Russian front but reliable sources said these seemed to indicate:

1.—The Germans were increasing their pressure toward the southeast obviously with the hope of taking Rostov-on-the-Don, driving across the Caspian land bridge to Astrakhan on the Caspian sea and moving south against the big oil ports of Baku and Bakou.

2.—Bad weather, along with stiffened Russian resistance, was slowing at least temporarily (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Highlights of Roosevelt's Navy Day Address to American People

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (P)—Some salient quotations from President Roosevelt's address:

We have wished to avoid shooting. But the shooting has started. And history has recorded who fired the first shot.

America has been attacked. The U. S. S. Kearny is not just a navy ship. She belongs to every man, woman and child in this nation.

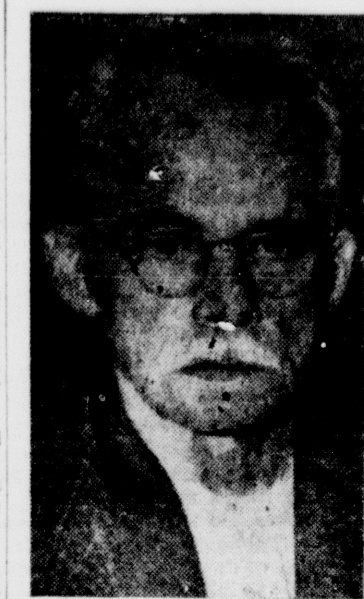

I have in my possession a secret map made in Germany by Hitler's government—by the planners of the new world order. It is a map of South America and a part of Central America as Hitler proposes to reorganize it.

Your government has in its possession another document made in Germany by Hitler's government. It is a plan to abolish all existing religions.

The God of blood and iron will take the place of the God of love and mercy.

Very simply and very bluntly—we are pledged to pull our own oar in the destruction of Hitlerism.

German Advance On Rostov Seems To Doom Big Port

Early Capture of City Sought in Drive for Caucasus Oil Fields

BERLIN, Oct. 27 (P)—The German army appeared to be driving for an early capture of Rostov, gateway to Caucasus oil and big Black Sea port, as bad weather retarded the advance on other Russian fronts.

The high command said the Russians, launching desperate counterattacks in the Donets basin of the southern sector, were thrown back with "heavy and bloody casualties" and loss of hundreds of prisoners, and credited Italian troops with inflicting a major share of the repulse.

Exact Location Not Stated
The exact location of the fighting and the strength of the Italian forces were not given, but foreign correspondents were furnished with copies of press material on Rostov.

It was recalled that similar matter was put in their hands only a few days before the Germans announced the occupation of Kharkov, the "Russian Pittsburgh" 240 miles northwest of Rostov.

Russian Reverses Along Nara River Mark Heaviest of Fighting to Date

Red Command Makes Frantic Appeal for "Every Man To Fight Like Ten" To Win

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

KUIBYSHEV, RUSSIA, Oct. 27 (P)—A German advance some fifteen miles beyond Maloyaroslavl—scene of weeks of fighting—to a point only fifty miles below Moscow on the Nara river was indicated tonight in military dispatches which reported that Soviet counter-attacks subsequently had driven the invaders back across the stream.

The Nara joins the Oka river at Serpukhov, a city of 77,000 almost directly south of Moscow, and Soviet advisers spoke of the heaviest of all the increasingly violent actions as raging on the Russian left wing in that vicinity.

Continued heavy action also was reported about Maloyaroslavl, itself, sixty-five miles southwest of Moscow, the base of the German salient.

The Red armies, under injunction of the supreme commander of the center, General Gregory K. Zhukov, to hold or die, were beating at this supreme German thrust with artillery barrages and infantry counterattacks.

New Order to Russians

"Not a step back! Halt the Fascists! Don't let them reach Moscow!"

"Every man must fight like ten! Cowards and panic-mongers must be destroyed ruthlessly as traitors to the Fatherland!"

Thus read the order of orders from Zhukov's headquarters.

Everywhere, the Germans were hurling forward lengthening columns of infantry and tanks supported by bombers; the Russian command was gambling principally upon cannon and the raw courage of foot troops.

Destroyer Kearny Badly Damaged in Torpedo Attack

Side of Ship Opened Up, James Forrestal Declares

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 27 (P)—James Forrestal, under-secretary of the navy, told a navy day dinner audience tonight that the destroyer Kearny, torpedoed on October 17, suffered an amount of damage which no other destroyer had ever incurred and remained afloat.

Giving the first details of the encounter between the destroyer and a submarine in the North Atlantic since the navy department reported several days ago that eleven men were missing and ten others had been wounded, Forrestal said:

"The Kearny suffered a direct hit from a torpedo abreast of the boiler room on the starboard side and the resulting explosion not only opened up that side of the ship but blew out the deck overhead and part of the superstructure."

"Yet in spite of this very substantial damage, the ship not merely remained afloat but proceeded under its own power to port."

Forrestal said the Kearny was "one of the new so-called top-heavy destroyers about which there was considerable controversy several years ago, a controversy as to the soundness of design and ability to meet the tests of action."

But, he said, the results of action in this case had constituted the "highest compliments that could be paid to the silent man in the design section of the bureau of ships (Continued on Page 10, Col. 3)

Declares Nation Stands Ready To Accept Newest And Greatest Challenge

UNDER NAZI PRESSURE

President Asserts Hitler's Plans Call for Dividing South America and Abolishing Religion

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (P)—President Roosevelt declared tonight that the "shooting has started" and solemnly called on the nation to help destroy a Hitler regime against which he leveled the following formal accusations:

1. It has drawn up a secret map showing how it intends to obliterate the existing boundary lines of fourteen South and Central American countries and substitute five "vassal states"—one of which would have dominion "over our great life line—the Panama Canal."

2. It has drafted a detailed plan to wipe out all existing religions, if Hitler wins, and substitute an international Nazi church. In place of the Bible, the words of Mein Kampf would be "imposed and enforced as holy writ" and in place of the Cross of Christ, the swastika and the naked sword would hold sway.

Has Secret Nazi Map

Mr. Roosevelt, making a major speech at a dinner at the Mayflower hotel here in observance of Navy day, declared that he had documents to prove his words—a copy of the secret map, and a detailed plan of the anti-religion program.

Pointing to the attacks on American vessels, Mr. Roosevelt asserted: "We have wished to avoid shooting, but the shooting has started. And history has recorded who fired the first shot. In the long run, however, all that will matter is who fired the last shot."

Again, he said the nation stood ready to face its newest and greatest challenge—"we Americans have cleared our decks and taken our battle stations."

He called for greater armaments production, to provide every soldier with weapons "better than that of any army on earth" and he appealed again for peace between capital and labor.

His Production Delays

Industrial output, he said, "cannot be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of industrial managers who would hold out for extra profits, or for 'business as usual.' It cannot be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of labor leaders who are a menace to the true cause of labor." (Continued on Page 10, Col. 4)

Repair Work on 14 Ships Delayed By Strike of Brooklyn Unionists

Giant Drydock Yards Closed by Walkout of 5,800 Workers

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (P)—Union and company officials turned to the Defense Mediation Board tonight as a strike closed the giant Brooklyn yards of the Robins Drydock and Repair Company where at least fourteen vessels were being overhauled.

The Industrial Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America (I.M.S.W.A.), which ordered the walkout wage demands, said it was 100 per cent effective. The union added that only 200 of 6,000 workers entered the yards and most of them were fire watchers, fire guards, police guards and others given special union passes to keep the plant in operating condition.

From Washington, the Mediation Board called on both parties "to refrain from any action which might aggravate the situation or render the controversy more difficult to solve" and promised an early hearing.

John Burge, union regional director, said the dispute centered around a five per cent wage increase, amounting to $10,000 a week, which the company had promised and then withdrawn.

The company made no statement, but an official said "this issue is one (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Wage-Hour Ruling Is Promised in Over-Time Case

Supreme Court To Decide What Employers Must Pay for Extra Work

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (P)—A ruling on the proper method of computing "over time" paid employees under the wage-hour act was promised today by the Supreme Court.

The tribunal agreed to pass on a Circuit Court decision holding that the Dallas News had not violated the wage-hour law by determining overtime on the basis of an agreed hourly wage which was above the required minimum pay.

Challenging this ruling, the wage-hour administration asserted that the proper method of fixing the hourly rate was by "averaging the weekly wage over the number of hours worked."

Would Increase Amount

This would require an employer to pay a larger amount, when employees were worked in excess of forty hours a week, than if a smaller hourly wage had been agreed upon in advance. The act requires payment of time and one-half for overtime.

Defending its arrangement, the newspaper said the method advocated by the administration was designed to limit overtime work.

Such a purpose, it was added, was "square in the face of the needs of national defense upon which our very existence as a free people depends."

Philip B. Fleming, the wage administrator, had contended that a final decision in favor of the newspaper would "largely destroy" the section of the legislation providing for a forty-hour work week.

Position of Administration

Under such a decision, the administrator asserted, most weekly salary arrangements could be converted into "arrangements for minimum or low basic hourly rates requiring no additional compensation for work weeks in which the statutory maximum is exceeded."

The wage-hour administration said the newspaper, before the law became effective, made agreements with its employees for a basic hourly rate of pay arrived at by dividing the weekly salary "by an arbitrary divisor, generally 60."

Such an arrangement, the administration added, permits an employee to work as much as fifty-three and one third hours a week without any compensation in addition to his weekly salary.

15 Bodies Found

Whitfield, another casualty, went to work for the company only this morning.

Rescue crews from mines throughout western Kentucky's coal region poured into this tiny community eleven miles southeast of Madisonville to aid home town crews.

The crew of fifty-four went into the mine at 7 a. m., and fifteen minutes later came the blast, described by an unidentified miner as terrific. He said that it knocked out all the men in his group, ripped out and twisted all the mine car tracks and tore down all the wiring.

Blast in Seventh Entry

The explosion occurred in the seventh entry, the mechanized section of the slope mine.

It is in this entry about 2,400 feet from the main entry where the fifteen are trapped.

The thirty-eight were in the sixth entry, the old mine area. The men were able to reach an air shaft.

The elevator in the main entrance was put out of operation by the blast and it was necessary for the rescuers to attach ropes to barrels and bring the men up one at a time by this method.

river, it was said, is highly important for its grain trade, industries and railway, and water communication network.

The praise of the Italians came at a time when the Italian foreign minister Count Galeazzo Ciano had been visiting Adolf Hitler at his headquarters. Observers noted it was one of a succession of high command tributes to allied forces. Late last week it was the Spanish Blue division. Before that the Hungarians and Slovaks were singled out. The Finns and Rumanians have come in for frequent mention.

The high command report on other fronts, particularly before Moscow, said only that operations were making continued progress "in spite of unfavorable weather."

Weather Retards Advance

Military commentators said that while poor weather retarded the German advance it had not stopped it.

A DNB dispatch from the Leningrad front said that Soviet forces preparing for a sally to break their encirclement yesterday were wiped out by German artillery before they could attack.

It was from the Southern front that most action was reported, however. There it was said by DNB that a German infantry regiment, despite spirited resistance, captured two burning bridges and 1,079 Russians.

In the same district, the dispatch added, German infantry took an airport by surprise, annihilated the personnel in hand-to-hand combat and demolished eleven planes.

INTERPRETING THE WAR NEWS

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

The clamor among the British people for more active aid to Russia seems destined to be answered affirmatively soon, although not in the form of flanking operations across the English Channel.

Tottering Russian armies in the south, reeling under hammer blows from north of Kharkov to Rostov, could not be helped very much now by a British offensive in Libya or even an attempted invasion of the continent from the west. German, not British initiative, is determining the scene of the next head-on clash between Empire troops and Hitler's shock divisions—and there is every indication that the collision will take place somewhere in the Caucasus.

There is more than a hint in dispatches from Russia that the whole Soviet left flank for a 400-mile span is wavering. Nazi claims that both Kharkov and Byelgorod, fifty miles northeast, have been captured represent a dangerous breach in the first river line, the Donets, upon which retreating Red forces might have hoped to rally. Both cities stand along the upper Donets. From both, rail and highway routes fan out north, east and southeast to facilitate a German effort to cut Russian armies apart, clear the Volga in the south, opening a huge gateway to the oil-rich Caucasus. With the Donets Basin from Byelgorod to Stalino already overrun and the Donets itself turned the only natural barrier behind which the Russians can stand in the south, short of the Volga.

Problem for Russians

Yet holding the Don line would impose grave new problems for the Russians, even if a British force of considerable size were rushed to their support from Iran as it well may be. That river, rising south of the Oka drainage basin below Moscow, sweeps southward to within fifty miles or less of the lower Volga near Stalingrad, then bends sharply eastward to empty into the Sea of Azov below Rostov.

It is 600 miles air line from the region of Tulsa, where the Don rises, to Rostov. By contrast, the river traverses a thousand miles or more, sweeping eastward in a great bend west of the height of land that forms the division between the Caspian and Sea of Azov watersheds. To hold that circuitous front would greatly extend Russian lines, leaving the priceless advantage of interior lines to the Germans. They could mass quickly to smash at chosen points.

Nazi Objective Plain

Yet a stand south and east of the Don seems the only barrier to a Nazi swing around the Rostov corner into the Caucasus. Nor can there longer be much doubt that the prime objective of Hitler's "crusade" against Russian communism was to reach Caspian oil sources.

The deadly battle of Moscow is being fought out to prevent the Russians from massing in the south to guard that vital resource. And it has plainly achieved much of its purpose, even if Moscow holds out indefinitely. For it is upon danger in the south, not at Moscow, that Russian reports focus attention.

The actual situation on the Moscow front is far from clear although there are no indications at this writing of any substantial change in the lines. German reports emphasize bad weather as a hampering factor. Weather conditions are unquestionably worse there in the north, than from Kharkov or Byelgorod southward to Rostov.

May Move from Iran

It remains to be seen, however, whether heavy Nazi forces from the Moscow zone have not already been shifted southward to insure a prompt break through the gateway to the Caucasus. British military spokesmen in Teheran report Russian troops being rushed from that area to the Don or Donets front. Apparently they also expect early orders to move up from Iran to help protect the oil fields and the back-door supply route for Russia via Iran.

Cabinet spokesmen in London have virtually ruled out any attempt to jump the channel for counter invasion of the continent. Memories of Dunkerque, Greece and Crete linger too strongly. A Libyan offensive also seems too remote and too late to change Hitler's plans. There can be no doubt, however, that German invasion of the Caucasus must quickly pit Nazi and British empire troops against each other in bloody conflict.

Mae West Sued By Frank Wallace

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 27 (P)—Papers in Frank Wallace's $1,000-a-month separate maintenance suit against actress Mae West were filed in superior court today. They were transferred from the San Bernardino courts at the request of Miss West's lawyers, who argued she was a resident of this county.

Wallace, who alleges cruelty, contends he and Miss West were married in Milwaukee, April 11, 1911, and separated July 8, 1915.

Neutrality

Hull, who declared that the United States would not go to war unless Hitler decreed it. He added that "it has not been at all to his advantage so far to do that."

Saying that the time has come to invoke the law of self-defense rather than that of neutrality, Hull added that "we will naturally use caution as the nation has always used caution."

Must Defend Rights

"There will be no purpose or intent to rush out somewhere and get into a real war," he continued. "It is all important, however, that we defend our rights on the Atlantic against an avowed movement of force and lawlessness. We should pursue a somewhat resolute course, not enough to be foolhardy, not enough to get unnecessarily into trouble, but enough to command the respect that one brave man has for another."

During his opening address, Connally paced back and forth behind his desk as he asserted:

"We should no longer submit to the dictates of Hitler and the Axis powers refusing our ships their undeniable rights under international law."

"We should no longer be deferred from the exercise of these rights by the coarse threats that our ships will be sunk."

"They are already being sunk. They are being sunk by the brutal and murderous doctrine of unrestricted submarine warfare. It represents the sublimated tyranny, the sublimated murder, the sublimated doctrine of force and might against law—human, divine, national, and international."

Would Protect Ships

"It is our solemn duty to so amend the Neutrality Act that our ships may protect themselves against attack and may once again sail anywhere on the seas."

Vandenberg, the first opposition speaker, called the pending measure a "temporary expedient." He said a majority of the people opposed it because "they are opposed to pulling this country into the valley of the shadow."

"This legislation," he added, "will create a new war hazard without any compensating advantage, and we will lose whatever advantage—great or small—we may now have from Hitler's reluctance to draw us in."

"If we are drawn all the way in, I do not see how we can close our eyes to the possibility of a second AEP, which would be necessary for any complete victory."

Vandenberg then quoted President Roosevelt as telling American parents last year:

Experts Studying State Income Tax

O'Connor Seeks To Learn if Reduction Should Be Made This Year

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 27 (P)—A committee of tax experts took up the problem of state income taxes today, urged by Governor O'Connor to render "prompt and reliable advice" whether a reduction should be made at this time.

Baltimore City, which receives one-quarter of the state tax collections made within the city, had asked the governor whether the tax is to be reduced and to what extent. Baltimore's mayor, Howard W. Jackson, declared the information was necessary for preparation of the city's 1942 budget and fixing of a municipal tax rate for next year.

O'Connor Asks Action

"I am asking the committee to take up its work immediately," O'Connor said, "in order that the most prompt advice can be given to the mayor and city council of Baltimore as well as the other subdivisions of the state."

Named to the committee were State Treasurer Hooper S. Miles, State Tax Commission Chairman William L. Henderson; Walter N. Kirkman, director of the Department of Budget and Procurement; Comptroller J. Millard Tawes; and Joseph Sherbow, General Council to the Public Service Commission.

"It is unfortunate that the discussions regarding possible reductions in the state income tax have been looked upon in some quarters as political maneuvering," the governor asserted, adding that the question of whether to effect tax reductions by use of the state's present large supplies was covered by "a number of factors."

Urges Utmost Caution

Consensus at the recent governor's conference, O'Connor disclosed, was that "utmost caution must be observed before making too-generous use of present surpluses" in view of future uncertainties.

"I appreciate the difficulties now facing Baltimore City in the preparation of next year's budget, but it is idle to say that a ten-minute conference between the governor and the mayor would bring about a solution," the Governor declared.

Johnstown Coal

"We were told they would have some followers."

"We tried to persuade them not to do so, and told them there would be pickets at the gate," said the union leader. "Some were adamant in their position, however. I don't know what is going to happen tomorrow morning."

"But the mine is closed down and it is going to stay closed down," After several speakers said they feared the workers of the steel-company owned captive mines could not win a battle against the corporations alone, the assembly voted to telegraph a request to Lewis to call a strike of all commercial mines also.

Problem for Turkey

One source said development of the campaign to the southeast "is quite likely to knock Turkey off the fence one way or another in the next few weeks."

He explained that if Axis forces were able to mop up the Crimea and establish themselves firmly along the north shores of the Black Sea Hitler's next move probably would be to "swing through Turkey toward Suez from Russia at the same time as Axis forces in North Africa moved toward the canal from Libya."

There was increasing talk that British forces would make a fighting stand—perhaps actually alongside Red army units—against a German attack on the Caucasus.

Neutral military sources in Iran said Gen Sir Archibald Wavell had there and in Iraq 60,000 Indian troops alone which could be sent to the Caucasus.

Million Men in Middle East

(Altogether Britain has been reported to have a million men in North Africa and the Middle East, but much of this force would be required for the defense of Egypt from the west.)

"It is the Caucasus," one source declared, "that holds the key to the rich oil fields, the key to one of the doors of India, the key to blocking one route of supply to Russia, and one key to Suez."

He added that the mountains themselves form "very formidable barriers, poorly served by roads and capable of being held by a comparatively small force."

It might be easier and wiser, he added, for the British to join the Russians in a stand actually in the mountains than out in front of them.

Nazis Raid Moscow

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (P)—German planes are raiding Moscow day and night with fire and explosive bombs and showers of leaflets demanding the city's surrender. The British radio said tonight in a broadcast which quoted dispatches from the Soviet capital. The BBC was heard here by NBC.

Youngsters To Rule Glen Echo for Week

GEN ECHO, Md., Oct. 27 (P)—For one week beginning tonight, the 550 residents of Glen Echo will place their government in the hands of town officials not more than seventeen years old.

According to a custom now in its third year, the young officials will be elected tonight. All persons not over seventeen will be eligible for the offices of mayor, town councilmen, clerk, treasurer, fire chief, marshal and deputy marshals.

Government Buys 500,000 New Rifles

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (P)—The war department contracted today for several hundred thousand rifles and large stores of other weapons believed to be destined for eventual use on the Russian or other war fronts.

Three arms manufacturers received orders totalling approximately $46,000,000 for rifles. On the basis of past costs, the sum would purchase more than 500,000 weapons.

They were understood to be Springfield or Lee-Enfields.

moving up to the line by the tens of thousands.

While the great struggle for Moscow thus thundered on inconclusively, the Soviet's imminent peril was clear before Rostov in the far south, and here in this auxiliary capital of Kuliyshev the Soviet leadership was urgently occupied with the organization of a vast new alternative war plant east of the Urals.

Rostov Not Mentioned

The mid-day communique of the Soviet command did not specifically mention Rostov — the key communications center on the River Don at the gateway to the Caucasus—but earlier military advice had made plain that the Germans were beating powerfully at the city's approaches and down upon the Crimean peninsula well to the west of the farthest German advance.

Against the disaster inherent in the possible loss of the great industrial and coal-producing donets basin and of the lower stretches of the Don valley, Soviet technicians were declared already feverishly at work in distant areas.

Factories evacuated from the Moscow industrial area were said to be now in operation in the Ural mountains. In perhaps one of the most rapid instances of industrial retreat and remobilization in history, one such plant was claimed to have been reassembled six days after its arrival at the new site and it was asserted, was producing as of tonight at a rate five times higher than in June.

Burge declared that if the navy needed any ship in the yards, the union would be willing to see that work on it was resumed at once. He also welcomed the intervention of the Mediation Board.

between you and Mr. Taylor or you and Mr. Morgan, the large question of adequate fuel supply is of greater interest and import to the national welfare. There is every reason for the continuance of negotiations. There is no reason for stoppage of work."

In his letter to the president, which he read slowly and in measured tones to a crowded press conference, Lewis said:

Asks Aid from Roosevelt

"If you would use the power of the state to restrain me, as an agent of labor, then, sir, I submit that you should use that same power to restrain my adversary in this issue, who is an agent of capital. My adversary is a rich man named Morgan, who lives in New York."

Cut Steel Production

At New York, Benjamin F. Fairless, president of United States Steel Corporation announced tonight immediate and substantial curtailment of steel operations at most of the corporation's subsidiaries due to lack of coal and projected the possibility of complete shutdowns if coal production was not resumed at its captive mines.

Fairless said operations in the Pittsburgh and Youngstown districts would be curtailed twenty per cent tomorrow; those in the Chicago district ten per cent and a gradual curtailment would take place in other districts if coal was not forthcoming soon.

Lewis was the target of sharp congressional attacks during the day. Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, called the mine workers' chief a "fourth member of the Axis" who would be "dealt with" after Congress had disposed of pending neutrality legislation.

Senator Byrd (D-Va.) issued a statement serving notice that "I do not intend to consider voting one step closer to war, except in our own defense, so long as sound and constructive measures are not adopted stopping at once all defense industry strikes and removing barriers of incompetence and inefficiency now permeating the defense program."

Congressmen Flay Lewis

In the House, Rep. Colmer (D-Miss.) said that Lewis had "openly defied the president of the United States and imperiled this country's future." Rep. Leland M. Ford (R-Calif.) asserted that Lewis "defies the right of the United States government to have a national defense unless his constitution-breaking, un-American program of force and coercion is accepted."

After telling the president that Morgan dominated the board of U. S. Steel and would decide what Taylor would do "when he meets me Wednesday," Lewis said:

"If Mr. Morgan will permit Mr. Taylor to accept the Appalachian agreement like all other coal operators, then the business can be disposed of in ten minutes and coal production resumed on Thursday. No impairment of defense production will have taken place, but if the country needs additional coal by reason of such brief stoppage, I will recommend to the mine workers that they make up the lost production by working additional days each week, until the lost production is regained."

(The Appalachian agreement covering commercial mines requires every worker in the mines to join the UMW after a probationary period. The steel companies have accepted the Appalachian contract as to wage rates and every other detail except the union shop clause.)

"Foolishness," Morgan Says

(In New York, Morgan characterized as "utter rubbish" the charges against him contained in Lewis' letter.

"True, I am one of the directors of the United States Steel Corporation," Morgan said, "but every other statement about me in Mr. Lewis' letter is untrue."

Chairman William H. Davis of the Defense Mediation Board asked the captive mine operators today to advise him by wire whether they would accept the board's recommendation in the dispute.

The board offered two alternative proposals: that the dispute be arbitrated by the full eleven-member mediation board with the principals to be bound by the board's decision, or that the differences be considered by a joint board of UMW representatives and captive mine operators. If the latter could not agree the case would be placed before an arbitrator whose decision would be accepted by both sides.

es, Something Should Be Done about Strikes

CONTINUATION of strikes in defense industries, now including the captive coal mines, the output of which affects the vital steel industry, again stresses with added emphasis the need for some legal improvement of the whole labor situation.

In the whole discordant situation there has lately come the abrupt surrender of Sidney Hillman, associate director of OPM, in the Currier case, wherein the employer of one faction of union labor was denied a contract, although $200,000 lower than those of competitors, because Hillman feared to face the prospect of a jurisdictional tie-up affecting the whole Detroit area.

It was an abrupt surrender, but the New York Herald Tribune offers the pertinent question as to whether he was really to blame for it. "As associate director of the OPM in charge of its labor division," it says, "his first job was to see that interruption of the defense program by labor strife is reduced to a minimum. He is a former vice president of the CIO, so there can be no accusation of favoritism. He made his decision contrary to statute and principle because he believed it was his primary duty to forward defense production."

While one may hesitate to say that Hillman wasn't right, the New York paper says there can be no hesitation whatever in condemning the condition that forced him into this tough spot. "It is a condition, to define it briefly and bluntly," it says, "in which the government finds it expedient to stand and deliver at the command of a labor faction. It is the quintessential fruit of a labor policy which for close to nine years has so encouraged union license that even the laws passed in the interim to protect and promote labor organization are now an object of factional contempt." Whether the government will again surrender in the captive coal mine situation remains to be seen. There is some indication, however, that it will be forced to take some drastic action in view of the defense production crisis.

What should be done? The Congress, which now says it will "wait and see what develops," has certainly seen enough and ought to do something. Many steps have been suggested. One lately mentioned is that unions unwilling to abide by the rulings of the NLRB be deprived of the privileges and immunities conferred them by the Wagner act and the anti-injunction law, which seems pretty drastic. Revision of the labor laws has long been suggested to include definition of the illegitimate strike, prevention of the intimidation of workers by unions or leaders, a broader application of the "cooling off" period, such as obtains in the railway labor laws; and protection of the rank-and-file membership of unions through registrations, frequent and fair elections; periodic public accounting of their funds, and regulation of initiation fees and dues to prevent racketeering. To all of these should be added the adoption of a definite policy respecting the closed shop issue, which appears the bone of contention in the present mine strike, looking to a guaranty of defense production at least for the duration of the existing emergency.

Certainly the situation as defined by President Roosevelt calls for some action, and the sooner it is taken the better. The president says "there must be uninterrupted production of coal for making steel, that basic material of our national defense," because it "is essential to the preservation of our freedoms, yours and mine, those freedoms upon which the very existence of the United Mine Workers of America depends." That applies with equal force to all of the myriad of industries that have to do directly or indirectly with the gigantic national defense program in which we are engaged up to our necks and the successful prosecution of which is imperative.

Pennsylvania Turnpike Driving Advice

THE PENNSYLVANIA TURNPIKE is one of the outstanding engineering achievements in the nation and one of the few thoroughfares on which the potentialities of the modern automobile can be realized over stretches long enough to make a worth-while saving in time.

The turnpike, a year old October 1, covers 160 of the 197 miles between Pittsburgh and Harrisburg. There are no grade crossings en route. There are nine tunnels through the Alleghenies, averaging almost a mile each, and the average time saved on a trip is an hour and twenty minutes as compared with older roads.

Despite all the factors of safety that have been provided, however, a number of accidents have occurred on the turnpike. "Human failures" are blamed by safety experts for them and they say that, as in the case of most accidents on other highways, they could have been prevented by safer driving practices on the part of motorists.

Wherefore, the Keystone Automobile Club has been prompted to issue a bulletin of advice about driving on this highway. It warns motorists that while the legal maximum speed is seventy miles an hour, it would be well for the average driver to keep well below that speed. This is because few drivers are equipped to drive faster than that over any considerable mileage, while the condition of the car is a factor to be carefully considered.

"It is vitally important," says Edward P. Curran, safety director of the club, "that drivers allow ample space in following other vehicles. The turnpike is so well designed, with scientifically banked curves and adequate 'sight distance' throughout its entire 160 miles that motorists are apt to lose their sense of speed. Unless a safe distance is maintained, a sudden stop of a car in front is likely to create a hazardous condition for vehicles following."

According to a report brought back by a Cumberland couple who witnessed several accidents along the highway, the most of the accidents have involved unnecessarily drivers who have followed other cars too closely. In each case cars were piled up when something went wrong with one car and it had to slow down or stop suddenly.

"Allowance should be made for reaction time and stopping distance," Curran says. "At seventy miles an hour," he states, "a safe following distance would be approximately 400 feet. It is also urged that motorists keep careful watch for signals of state motor police guarding the highway, particularly at night. For some unexplained reason, police report, drivers fail to heed flash-light and other signals when police are trying to warn of danger ahead."

"Another important thing to remember is that while the paving surface is as safe as modern engineering can make it, sudden freezing in the mountains may cause ice to form faster than cinder crews can cover it. The designation 'all-weather' highway should not be interpreted to mean that ideal surface conditions will exist under all conditions of weather."

The advice thus given should be heeded—as well as elsewhere—who use this super highway.

The Army Changes Dietary Habits

A MEDICAL AUTHORITY comes forward with the disclosure that most draftees are having their dietary habits changed by army life. The implication is that their mothers don't know how to cook and it's a lucky thing army mess sergeants took over the job of feeding them while there was life.

The same thing was said twenty-five years ago, and perhaps it was true to an extent. Dietary habits of the nation changed after the World War — for the better, most persons believe—and perhaps there will be further improvement after the boys return from this fracas.

But, in addition to the disclosure of a change in dietary habits, there has come also, what is the more reassuring, the statement that American army fare is the best in the world, and is scientifically balanced. And reports from the camps are that the boys are getting enough to eat, which is really saying a mouthful.

Today's college students, says a famed educator, study much harder than did those of a generation ago. Maybe the young folks are just trying to take their minds off the kind of world into which commencement day will toss 'em.

The war, we read, has made the mustache popular again. Maybe this one, like many a previous war, will be won by a whisker.

Italy, it would seem, is still far from licked as long as there is a lot of fight left in Editor Gayda's typewriter.

Should Women Drive?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

I drive out into the country on a Sunday afternoon—and I notice something. . . . And this something that I notice disturbs me a little.

What is it in me that is disturbed? Is it my masculine vanity? If you say that it is, I cannot and will not deny the accusation. Very well, then. It is my masculine vanity that is irritated.

I notice hundreds of women driving automobiles. I notice that in more than half of those machines, the woman, not the man, is at the wheel. . . . The man is sitting alongside, looking at the scenery. He may be nervous about driving, he may be wishing he were doing the driving, he may not care who drives and may be glad because his wife has taken the responsibility from his shoulders.

Nevertheless, whatever the reason, my masculine vanity is annoyed.

Why are all these women driving the family cars? Have they all decided that the man in the family can't drive well enough? Have they usurped the place behind the wheel—or has he abandoned it? Have they come to the conclusion that since they are the bosses in everything else, they might as well be the boss in the family automobile, too?

I'm not stalling. I'm just asking. . . . And to save me from a few brickbats, I hasten to declare that in MY family, I'm not the better driver. I've had more experience, but I also come close to more accidents; and I DON'T insist on always driving the car. . . . But in most of those cars I meet on the right side of the wheel and that Papa automatically gets into the car and sits on the right side of Mamma. . . . The man hasn't said: "Here, dear, I wish YOU'D drive for a while." Mamma hasn't even waited for him to say that; she took the wheel without a word—and let him protest if he dares. Much good it will do him. Mamma knows how to drive THIS car.

Tyranny is what I call it!

Warships Endure Heavy Punishment, Johnson Reports

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

Washington, Oct. 27.—There is one encouraging development in our beginning naval war and one not so encouraging.

The first is the apparent tenacity of life of modern naval craft. It isn't permitted to go beyond the censored news but the very casualty list of the destroyed Kearney indicates that she must have had a terrible hole blown in her. Yet she reached port.

Apparently her water-tight compartments and closed bulkheads saved her, notwithstanding that the nature of her casualties hints that some men were imprisoned and smothered or drowned in them.

Some terribly wounded British ships are in American shipyards being repaired with remarkably swift efficiency. Their names and locations have generally been loyally withheld by the press but the facts are obvious to any interested local observers.

Reach Port, Anyway

That the damage to some of them was not deadly seems incredible, but more incredible still is the fact that they were somehow brought limping here — sometimes half way around the world.

The answer appears to be much the same as it was in the case of the Kearney. They may not be invulnerable to attack by submarine and aerial torpedoes but they certainly take a lot of killing before they are really dead.

From all that can be learned that can be permissibly printed, the determination, resolution and heroism of these navy men has rarely been equalled and seldom surpassed. That apparently goes for all the principal combatants, British, American and German.

The published story of the Blisk, chivied across the Atlantic by overwhelming strength and finally floating her colors, when completely ungovernable, circling helplessly like a quail shot through the head, going down with all hands and a final message of defiance from her commander is as hectic as any in naval history.

But don't let's forget Admiral Cervera's hopeless Spanish fleet, off Santiago, sinking almost to the last ship under our superior gunfire.

Sailors Deserve Praise

Mine is an army training and tradition but you've got to hand it to the sailors. They don't know when they are licked and you can't be sure they are gone until they are embalmed and buried—or cremated.

The discouraging development is the apparent complete helplessness of merchant ships as compared with their naval sisters. There are so few details of recent sinkings available, and the news seems to be being so fed out when and as it will produce the greatest warlike effect that it is dangerous to do any guessing. But at this stage it appears that the only safety for merchantmen is complete and active naval protection.

The idea of arming merchant vessels is distinctly debatable. It could do much more harm than good. It looks as though if a submarine or aerial bomber got within range the average commercial carrier is through—whether she is armed or not.

News Policy Seen Harmful

The authorities with the only real information available perhaps know best, but it would seem that a more complete and prompt disclosure of some of these sinkings would do more to condition public opinion that the piece-meal and apparently timed information that is given out.

For example there has been a rumor around Washington for several days that, in addition to the

IT'S TIME SOMEONE TOLD HIM

Warplanes Are Seen More Practicable Than Tanks in Aiding Britain and Allies

By MARK SULLIVAN

President Roosevelt announced last week that our output of tanks is to be greatly increased. More money is to be asked from Congress, new factories to be built, existing factories expanded.

This is in accord with policy adopted by the administration, over which I am supported by Congress and people. It is a step in a job to which we have committed ourselves.

Accompanying the policy and the job is an optimistic assumption, sound as far as it goes. The assumption is that the United States, when it gets underway, can turn out far more tanks (and other war materials) than Germany. Just how much more, we do not know exactly. Call it twice as much. Call it five times as much.

But there are two things. One is tanks. The other, quite different, we may call tanks-on-the-battle-front. The real problem is, can we deliver, on the battle-front, more tanks than Germany? The location of the battle-front at the present time is central Russia.

Two Factors

Tanks on the battle-front are made up of two factors—the making of the tank, and the transporting of it. It is in this double respect that we must compare ourselves with Germany. It is not enough to compare our factory capacity with Germany's factory capacity.

For Germany, the double job is relatively easy. Germany can make a tank in central Germany, and load it on a railroad car. The railroad car can proceed to the battle-front by a comparatively straight and short trip, call it 1,500 miles, without interruption. For Germany, the job is like making tanks at Pittsburgh and delivering them to a battle-front along the Mississippi river. True, Germany has two impediments. One is the gauge of Russian railroads, the distance between rails is greater than on German roads. But Germany, with great quantities of labor, her own and that of prisoners, can readily adjust the gauge of the Russian railroads. Germany's other impediment, quite serious, is scarcity of railroad cars. But admitting these impediments, Germany's job of making a tank and getting it to the battle-front is relatively simple.

Consider the job in our case. We make a tank in Pittsburgh. We ship it by rail to New York. At New York we unload it and put it on a boat. The boat proceeds—through submarine-infested waters—to Archangel, some 6,000 miles. At Archangel, we trans-ship again to a railroad. The railroad from Archangel to the battle-front is at nearly all points close to the German lines, easy to be interrupted by raids, from the air or otherwise.

Or, the ship bearing American tanks goes from New York to the Persian Gulf, some 12,000 miles, through submarine-infested waters. At the Persian Gulf, the tank is trans-shipped to a railroad, which is in poor condition, for a several hundred mile trip to the battle-front.

Or, we make the tank at Pittsburgh, ship it by rail to San Francisco; trans-ship to a boat for a 4,000 mile trip to Vladivostok, trans-ship again to a railroad, which is in primitive condition for a 6,000 mile trip to the battle-front.

Probably Five to One

Perhaps some engineer can translate all this into figures—can make a formula expressing the difference between the United States and Germany with respect to delivering tanks at the battle-front. Taking into account both factors—the making of the tank and the delivery of it—one would say the advantage to Germany, the handicap of the United States, must be in a proportion of something like five to one. However, engineers and military strategists know more about this than any layman can. In any event, it would be interesting and useful to hear from the experts.

What is true of tanks is true of all other forms of military equipment—guns, ammunition and the like. The one exception is airplanes. Airplanes going from the United States to the battle-front presumably would make part of the trip or all of it by air. The easier delivery of airplanes suggests an inquiry. Are airplanes the best contribution we can make? In our role of arsenal, would we do better to concentrate on making airplanes?

This is a detail of the whole problem of the war, and the contribution we can make. Somewhere, one supposes, some group of leaders—American and British together—has thought all these things out, and arrived at a program. One presumes we do not go along making first a drive on tanks, then a drive on airplanes, then a drive on ships. One presumes we do not make all these drives, without some one having clear understanding of the relation of each to the whole.

Warplanes Chief Objective

To a layman it looks as if, at this time, in any battle of men and metal—that is, any land battle—Hitler can win. This is not to say, necessarily, that Hitler can win a war of endurance, such as the Russian situation may come to be.

On the other hand, it is quite clear that on the sea, the United States and Britain are dominant, so dominant that Hitler does not even pretend to challenge them. This dominance at sea seems permanently assured.

In the air, Hitler is dominant over all the areas where the war is active. But decidedly it is not certain that Hitler can maintain his air dominance over a period of years. To outstrip Hitler in the air is the most practicable objective of Britain and the United States. While the American arsenal must do many things the one contribution always to be emphasized is warplanes in the greatest possible quantity.

Quite Worth The Effort

From the Wheeling, W. Va., Intelligencer

In a recent summary of our stake in the war, William S. Knudsen, head of the O.P.M., said this:

"This is your country and my country. All of us belong to it; all of us own it; all of us help run it. You have a home here and I have a home here. We want to keep our homes. We want to keep on living in them—pretty much the same way we always have. With all our faults it's a pretty good way of living."

If these things are not worth working for, thinks Mr. Knudsen, "then nothing is worth working for." "Suppose," he asks, "we do have to work harder than we like

Double Armament Program Is Held To Be Fantastic

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27.—This vague new official told about doubling our armament production makes good victory propaganda, but it will be easier to converse about than to do.

Pieced together from various recent suggestions of Mr. Roosevelt and the War Department (and interpolated by necessarily anonymous officials) the plan is this:

Our arms building calls now for expenditure of $45,000,000,000 in the next two years. We are to double the amount and spend $90,000,000,000 (an amount greater than was earned by every man, woman and child in the United States last year).

We are to start toward this doubling within the next two months and hope to accomplish it in 1943, two years hence. It is not to be a bulk program laid down in one proposal, but submitted piecemeal from time to time. First items will be tanks and planes.

Mind you, we are not increasing our present production—which is relatively nothing—merely our anticipations for the future.

And, of course, figures are not to be given out on the numbers of planes or tanks we will produce each month. Such figures have now been banned by executive direction. So no one will know the disparity between our production and our anticipations until it is all over.

Defects Obvious

The defects in this vision are obvious. Take the tank picture for a typical example. To double the expected output, you will not only have to double the size of factories now manufacturing tanks but also vastly increase capacity of steel plants. Both are now operating at utmost. The construction job would require years.

But the administration is working up a scheme to shortcut that delay. It was hinted in S. P. A. B. Director Donald Nelson's speech in Chicago, Mr. Nelson merely said civilian users of steel (and other needed materials) must skimp. What he meant was that there will be no new automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, electric vacuum cleaners and houses (other than defense houses) available a few months hence if the doubling promise is carried out. Those officials who are serious about carrying out the idea say that by next summer, none of these and similar durable-consumers goods will be available.

So far the government has been taking only what it could reasonably expect to use from normal business. Under the tank program it would have to take all—and then some.

Would Kill Business

The prospects of what this would do to the life of the country are so fantastic as to be inconceivable ahead of realization. Certainly everyone in the automobile business would be making tanks or be out of work. What of the retail auto dealers and salesmen with only used cars left? What of prices? What of transportation with the railroads denied steel and new trucks unavailable?

Obviously even the beginning of the new program cannot be realized without a breakdown of business as we know now.

Where is the money to come from? Even if the program pushes the earnings of the people (national income) up to $120,000,000,000 by 1943, the rate of spending would take half of it. Further taxation cannot furnish this kind of money. Neither can borrowing. The threat of monetary inflation thus becomes involved.

Change of Outlook

Behind this explosive new conception of what is needed, is a change of official outlook on the war. They say now that Hitler must be defeated in battle (see Ickes' last speech). They have apparently abandoned the theory that he can be squeezed out by economic blockade. Pessimism about Russia exists. The official rumor is around that the Nazis will strike through the Caucasus into the Iran and Iran oil fields this winter.

By this reasoning the conclusion has been reached that a Nazi defeat can only be accomplished if we overproduce him in war materials by a substantial margin.

But you can also see this reasoning leads you to the goal of a new A. E. F. to fight in Europe, Asia, Africa. Certainly the British have sufficient men to handle all the armaments this program supposes we will be producing a year or two hence.

to; suppose our muscles do get tired; suppose we get some callouses on our hands; suppose we lose some sleep. Suppose we haven't got time to play—even on Saturday afternoons. Suppose we never get another vacation until this war is over. Suppose we can't get a new car for a few years; or we have to put off building a house; or have to go back to brooms instead of vacuum cleaners."

Viewed at its very worst, our way of living is worth working for—and fighting for. And it is worth fighting for against enemies from within as well as from without.

Mother-Daughter Banquet Highlights Girl Scout Week

Mrs. Julius Schindler Speaks on History of Organization

The annual Girl Scout Mother-Daughter banquet held last evening in the recreation hall of the Centre Street Methodist church, was the highlight of Girl Scout week. The tables were decorated in autumn leaves, fruit, marigolds and chrysanthemums and yellow candles. Candy favors were made by Troop No. 21, of the Baltimore and Ohio Y. M. C. A. Miss Angela Mathias led the group singing of "America," following which Mrs. William A. Eisenberger gave the invocation.

Mrs. Schindler Speaks
Miss Mary Shriver, president of the Leaders Association, gave an address of welcome and introduced Mrs. Julius Schindler, Girl Scout Commissioner, who spoke on "Girl Scouts and Today's Needs." Mrs. Schindler traced the organization from its inception twenty-nine years ago when Juliette Low returned from England enthusiastic about the Girl Guides of England and organized the first American Girl Scout troop in Savannah, Ga., with the same philosophy and objectives as it has today. The Commissioner stressed the responsibilities as well as the privileges in a Democracy, and declared "it isn't enough to know what a Democracy is, you must believe in it; it isn't enough to believe in it, you must do something about it." She placed special emphasis on the "do" and reported on the Service Bureau which was formed by the scouts a year ago in answer to the question, "what can I do to help the National emergency?"

Mrs. M. Hogan, in speaking as a mother of a girl scout, stressed the program which aided the girls in building physically, through outdoor activities; mentally, through handicraft and literature programs; spiritually and morally, through the acts of charity taught especially through the "kindness to others at all times" rule and the Service Bureau, where the girls aid the Red Cross and various other charitable organizations.

Shows Ideals in Program
Miss Florence Ann Schlott, local director, in speaking on "Making Democracy Work" reminded the audience that "Democracy is not self-generating, but must be real to us and we must believe it." She continued by declaring that the forefathers gave the principles and ideals for a democracy but they must be applied and worked out for a democracy to result. She showed how the same principles and ideals are in all girl scout programs, tolerance, self-discipline and a choice of programs that they may be taught to choose wisely and for the most advantage at the present time as well as later in life. In speaking of the Service Bureau Miss Schlott stated the girl scouts had about 1,000 hours of service to about fifteen organizations. She outlined the program for the next few weeks which includes preparation of food for large groups, child care, transportation and clothing and shelter for emergency, and asked for additional donations of clothing for the Red Cross, particularly for boys, and reported 400 articles had been distributed during September.

Troop 4 Wins Prize
The Helen Waring Martin award of $10 for the most publicity on troop achievements during the year were recorded in their notebook was presented to Girl Scout Troop No. 4, of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. Fred Hetzel, leader, was made by Mrs. Sara Roberts Getty. Maxine Hawkins accepted the award in the name of the troop and said they had decided to use it to buy baskets of food for the Associated Charities in addition to the usual ones they give at Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Brownie Pack No. 33 of Mt. Royal school was invited. Other pieces on the musical program included "The More We Get Together," "Home on the Range" and the "Hymn of Scouting" and "Tape."

A program of exhibits of all troops, showing their year's activities, concluded the evening.

Company G Men Will Be Sent More Sweaters

Another Shipment Will Be Made the Latter Part of This Week

Mrs. Harry E. Flook, Buckingham road, The Dingle, chairman of the Soldiers Service here, requests any one knitting for the soldiers of Company G, who has a sweater nearly completed, to contact her before the latter part of the week, when she plans to send another box of sweaters to the company now on maneuvers in North Carolina. One hundred and three sweaters have been sent to the local men and Mrs. Flook expects to have between forty and fifty to send this week. She said that within a few more weeks all the men in the company will have sweaters.

Lieut. Col. Flook reports the men are all well and in good spirits, that the people of North Carolina are most hospitable and the United States Organization has established an office near camp and makes the contacts for the families and the service men. The organization has in some instances also paid for telephone calls home.

Why Let Yourself Get Constipated?

Why endure those dull headachy days due to constipation, plus the inevitable trips to the medicine chest, if you can avoid both by getting at the cause of the trouble? If your constipation, like that of millions, is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet, the "better way" is to eat Kellogg's All-Bran. This crunchy, toasted breakfast cereal is the ounce of prevention that's worth a pound of emergency relief. It helps you not only to get regular but to keep regular, day after day and month after month, by the pleasant means you ever knew.

Eat Kellogg's All-Bran regularly, drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation. Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Music Clubs Will Give Musicales To Aid British

Admission to Concerts Will Be "A Bundle for Britain"

The National Federation of Music clubs in collaboration with the Bundles for Britain, Inc., is beginning the most extensive philanthropic enterprise in its forty-four year history. Between now and December 25 it will sponsor a series of Christmas musicales from coast to coast for which the admission charge will be a "Bundle for Britain."

The enterprise will be launched with an hour concert in Carnegie hall, New York City, November 10 at 11 a. m., for which at least seven national and world-famous artists are giving their services. Jose and Amparo Turbi, pianists; Joseph and Rosina Lhevinne, duo-pianists; Eddy Duchin, pianist and band leader are among the members of the all star cast.

The Federation of Music clubs will send to its own and other clubs as well as the Bundles for Britain Units suggested programs for Christmas musicales prepared by Dr. John Warren Erb, New York City, choral chairman for the Federation and director of Symphonic music at New York University.

Auxiliary To Meet

The first meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Henry Hart Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars in the new home will be held at 8 o'clock this evening, with a social hour following.

Mrs. Hester Lindamood, president, requests all members to be present.

Washington Speakers Will Address Meeting Of Townsend Club

Otis J. Bouma and Truman J. Keesey, of Washington, D. C., legislative representatives for the Townsend Plan, will be the principal speakers today at 8 p. m., at the meeting of Townsend Club No. 1, in Junior O.U.A.M. hall, Polk street.

The speakers will be introduced by J. W. Miller, deputy national representative for Maryland and West Virginia.

The public is invited to attend.

Halloween Festival Will Be Sponsored By Fort Hill Band

The annual Halloween festival, sponsored by the Fort Hill high school band, will be held Thursday, October 30 from 7:30 to 11 p. m., in the gymnasium of Fort Hill high school.

Booths will be erected, a bake sale will be held and games will be staged followed by dancing which will get under way at 8:30 p. m. Music will be provided by the Blue and White orchestra, directed by Jack Platt.

The Fort Hill band will play a short program during the cake walks of the festival.

A Ride in a Paper Boat

By MARIE BLIZARD
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY

"WHY DOES Sheila want to see Eric? What can be the matter of life and death? Was that merely Sheila's dramatic way of putting urgency? Had Katie really understood the message?"

These, and other questions, ran in swift succession through Katie's mind as she bathed and dressed in preparation for Sheila's coming.

That the matter was concerned with the old association of Eric and Sheila which undoubtedly had some bearing on the Herick family's determination to break up the marriage of its heir and the actress, Katie had little doubt. But she couldn't see how that could now include Eric. It was over many years. Those things, however wrong, were not legal hazards to Sheila's present situation.

Katie had said, "She said I should get in touch with Mr. Adams and tell him to be here at 6 o'clock."

It was just six when Katie came into the living room to inquire about dinner. "Will you be having company, ma'am?"

Hallie said she didn't know. She was surprised to find herself wishing the dinner hour had already arrived, surprised to find herself nervously tense, fostering a premonition that the hour would bring forth something she couldn't name.

She had no nervousness about her meeting with Sheila. They had met several times before since the circle in which they both moved professionally was a small one.

She forced herself to calmness and picked up her book. She turned the pages rapidly, reading a line here, a line there, not really seeing anything on the page, her ear tuned expectantly to the ringing of the telephone, the doorbell which, for once, was unnaturally silent.

Half past six was heralded by the striking of clocks inside and outside the apartment. The half hour dragged by.

At 7 o'clock Katie came to ask what time Mrs. Adams wanted dinner and if Mr. Adams was expected.

He had been expected, Hallie remembered he'd said, "I'll be home by six-thirty. We can catch the first show at the movies and I can get back to the studio in time for the Johnson show."

Hallie found she had no appetite. "Mr. Adams has been detained somewhere, Katie. You can leave something in the oven. I'll fix it when Mr. Adams comes in. I don't know what time he'll get here."

In an obscure restaurant off

Eighth avenue Sheila Herick and Eric sat in a dim booth.

Eric had arrived but a moment before. "What's up? I got your SOS at the studio."

"I had them out all over town. I even called your house and told the maid to have you there at 6 o'clock. I had to reach you."

"So I gathered," he said dryly. "Why? And where's the bridegroom?"

Sheila took a deep breath. "Right here," she said.

Eric looked at her for a moment. "Are you nuts or plastered?"

"I'm giving it to you straight. I am not Mrs. Reeves Herick, darling. I'm Mrs. Eric Adams."

Eric stared at her, unable to absorb the meaning of the words. Then he got a little pale. The thought of Hallie came instantly to his mind.

"It's just as much of a surprise to me, old boy," Sheila was saying. "And I don't like it any better than you do. It rather messes up my plans."

"It's incredible," Eric murmured. "I wish it were. But it's very real and it stands between me and enough money to keep me in sapphires for the rest of my life."

"Sapphires?" Hallie's going to have a child," Eric told her.

"That's tough." There was genuine sympathy in Sheila's voice.

"I don't get it," he didn't, really, but the possibilities, snatches of memories, were lining up in his mind and they added up. "You don't mean that old stuff at Brock's place?"

She nodded.

"Talk, Sheila, talk!"

"Old man Herick wouldn't be satisfied to break up Reeves and me; he wants to get out of it without a settlement. And it would warm that flinty heart of his to break me in the bargain. I've heard about people who can love, but I never knew that anybody could hate the way that old man hates me."

"But what's that got to do with you and me?"

"I'm coming to that . . ."

"Even if the old man does dig up that stuff about us, he can't do anything about it."

"I just told you, and I wasn't dreaming the seriousness of this. You and I are married and we've never got a divorce. That makes me—and you—a bigamist, and that is something Herick can do something about. I'm pretty sure that you don't want the news broadcast any more than I do. Something tells me that I'm not going to pull out of this with any money. That's bad enough, but think what it will do to my career. I'll be washed up."

"You'll be washed up!" Eric exploded. "How about me? How about Hallie and the baby?"

"We can fix this up," Sheila said calmly.

"How do you know we're married?" he demanded, trying to father his startled wits.

"Miller told me."

"Miller? He's dead! He had to go west before the show closed. And we found out . . ."

"I know what we found out, but we were wrong. If only I'd known! I was gone on you, Eric. You were the only man I ever loved."

"Could we please keep that out of this conversation and get to facts?"

"They're coming. Brace yourself for a shock, Miller's alive and right here in New York. The vulture is nicely set up in a hotel suite, on which I'm paying the rent, waiting to be set for life."

Eric shook his head, puzzled, unhappy. "I don't get it."

"The guy is bad clear through, but he's strictly legit and he's got but one thing to offer me."

"Fortunately he didn't go to the Hericks. Here's the story: He did go to Arizona, got well and stayed stuck in some little town where, unfortunately, they get newspapers. He saw the blast I've been getting and saw a way to live in the rest of his life. So he bumps his way to New York and sends for me, which is a break—so far."

"Edmonds, Joyce, the whole gang said he was no minister."

"But they just didn't know. He was, and he's got proof."

"What does he want?" Eric asked, tight-lipped.

"He'll take 5,000 bucks to keep his mouth shut."

"Five thousand? You've got it, Sheila, and it's worth it to you."

"Sure it's worth it. He'll come back for more, but it will keep him quiet until I can get a settlement in return for a divorce from Reeves and, after that, he can't do anything. The only catch is that I haven't got five thousand. I can't get a nickel out of Reeves, and I can't raise more than three thousand for my jewelry and furs."

"What are we going to do?"

"You're going to get two thousand. It's worth it to you, isn't it? After all, with a kid . . ."

"I'll get it somehow. I don't know how, but Hallie . . . God, Sheila, what a mess we've made of this."

"Meet me here at half past eleven. Miller has given me until midnight to give him a guarantee. After that, he shoots the works and you and I will be on a spot."

PATTERN 9893

An up-to-date housekeeper knows that pretty aprons are part of her technique of keeping things spic and span! Make yours from Pattern 9893 by Marian Martin. . . . You'll need at least two for yourself. Make apron A with a square neck and button-on suspenders that cross in back and add the buttons on the scoop pockets! Make version B with a scalloped bodice and with straps of contrast like the optional pockets. Both aprons look sweet when accented by either tie-rac or ruffling. You'll find the Sew Chart is an immense help in stitching this pattern up quickly.

Pattern 9893 may be obtained only in sizes small (32-34), medium (36-38) and large (40-42). Small size, view A, requires 2½ yards 35 inch fabric; view B, 2½ yards 35 inch fabric and ½ yard contrast.

HOW DOES IT FEEL to dive straight down from several miles up? Bill Ward knows. He's the test pilot who put this amazing new Curtiss dive bomber through her paces for the Navy. That's Bill in the picture at the left, above, smoking his (and the Navy man's) favorite cigarette. He'll tell you—

"YOUR EARS CRACKLE and pop. You think," says Bill Ward, "the whole world's trying to squeeze the daylight out of you. You think maybe it has, if things go a little foggy or dark when you're pulling out of your dive." After a ride like that, a cool, flavorful Camel tastes mighty welcome.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO IS THE REBIDDER?

WHETHER the rebid of a suit is a sign-off or not depends largely on who made it. If it was the original bidder, he cannot possibly be signing off and showing a worthless hand. He may merely be indicating still greater length, and may have some surplus values in his hand, yet no other logical rebid. But, if the partner of the opening bidder makes a minimum rebid of his suit, he may not have an earthly thing except that suit, and even it may not have any particular merit except its length.

the diamond 6 was ruffed by the dummy's last trump. The club 15 fell to the A, the club 7 went to the Q and then the club 10 was led, the diamond 9 being discarded and West ruffing with the heart 10. Later a trick had to be lost to the diamond K, so the contract was down three.

If South had paid attention to the weakness advertised by North's second club bid at the range of three, and had passed, his partner would have made the contract, losing only two tricks in spades, one in hearts and one in clubs, unless East led the A and another club, which would have prevented the ruffing of a spade. In that event, the contract would have been set only one trick, not three.

West led the spade K, followed with the A, then offered his 5 to the Q, making South choose between ruffing himself down to three trumps or discarding. He preferred the latter, putting on the diamond 2. The heart 2 was returned by East, the Q was lost to the K, and the heart 3 was fired back to the 8 and A. The diamond A won and

Western Maryland Section Report

Intermittent Rain

Drizzle in Cumberland Turns into Downpour in the Afternoon

(By The Associated Press)

A heavy blanket of smoke-laden mist covered Maryland and neighboring states yesterday (Monday), accompanied in some sections by light intermittent rainfall that was balm to drought-stricken areas.

The low overcast caused by smoke and humidity brought queries from widespread points. Assistant State Forester Walter J. Quick said there were "no large fires" in the state. But from Virginia came reports of forest fires in the dismal swamp area. Smoke, carried by a south wind, hung over a section of the seaboard as far north as Pennsylvania.

Maryland's Eastern Shore reported no rain. The western part of the state was more fortunate.

A drizzle started in the Cumberland area in the morning, soon developing into a substantial downpour. Forest wardens, who battled woodland blazes over the weekend, welcomed the overdue precipitation but declared a general soaking rain was needed to reduce the drought menace.

The Hagerstown and Frederick areas had about one-quarter of an inch rain. Baltimore and Annapolis also had some moisture.

There was little help for the dry wells and streams and depleted water supplies seriously affecting a number of communities throughout the state nor could the weather bureau promise much in the way of relief.

Today is to be cloudy, becoming partly cloudy in the afternoon and colder, the bureau's report said. Fresh southwesterly winds of last night were expected to shift to strong northwesterly winds today.

Cumberland Country Club Appoints New Managing Stewards

Appointment of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Madden as managing stewards of the Cumberland Country Club, effective November 1, is announced by Albert Carlson, secretary-treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Madden succeed Mr. and Mrs. Guy Erbschloe, who have been in charge for the past year.

The Maddens are coming here from the Washington, Pa. Country Club where they served as managing stewards for one year.

Three Are Paroled In Circuit Court

Three persons were granted suspended sentences yesterday in circuit court after they appealed the action of the juvenile court.

Mrs. Virginia Senkbeil was found guilty by Associate Judge William A. Huster of contributing to the delinquency of her two minor children and placed on probation for a year on condition she be of good behavior and take proper care of the children. In juvenile court, she had been sentenced to six months in the House of Correction, the sentence suspended under certain conditions. She was represented by Julius E. Schindler, attorney.

Mr. and Mrs. William Mortzfeldt, who had been sentenced to a year in the House of Correction by Juvenile Magistrate Elizabeth R. Menefee for contributing to the delinquency of Mrs. Mortzfeldt's minor child, pleaded guilty to the charge and were paroled for one year.

It was brought out that the couple had been wed since the juvenile court action, the child involved in the case being Mrs. Mortzfeldt's by a previous marriage, which had "gone on the rocks." The defendants were represented by William R. Carscaden, attorney.

Desertion Charged In Divorce Suit

Desertion is charged by Mrs. Pearl S. James in a suit filed yesterday in circuit court asking an absolute divorce from Oscar James.

The bill of complaint, filed by Julius E. Schindler, attorney, says the couple was wed June 8, 1928, and separated September 8, 1939.

Another suit placed on the equity docket lists Maud Virginia Light as plaintiff and Raymond Joseph Light. Details of the action, filed by Harold R. Naughton, attorney, were not available.

Social Agencies Group Will Meet Thursday

A luncheon meeting of the Cumberland Council of Social Agencies will be held Thursday at noon in the Central Y.M.C.A.

The council comprises representatives of different agencies dealing with the welfare problems in Cumberland.

Youths Destroy Property

Six local youths are being held in custody of their parents on charges of destruction of city property and will be tried in police and juvenile court Saturday.

The boys were arrested Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock by Officers W. P. Crabtree and J. C. Stouffer for breaking arc lights in the Maple side district.

MILLER RITES ARE HELD AT THE HOME

Funeral rites were held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home for Mrs. Elizabeth Rawlings Miller, 56, wife of Harry Miller, Sr., who died Saturday at her home in Paw Paw.

Services were in charge of the Rev. Edward A. Porter, pastor of the Paw Paw Methodist circuit, assisted by the Rev. Claude MacDonald, the Rev. J. O. Patterson, both of the Christian church and the Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of the First Presbyterian church here.

Active pallbearers were Charles Powell, Clifford Gordon, Harvey Weller, Dayton See, Vernon Hoover and Albert Simmons.

Honorary pallbearers were S. G. King, E. Ambrose, H. D. Beeler, William Beeler, Hurl Gauglin, P. E. Nixon, Frank Ross and R. G. Cave. Interment was in the Woodrow, W. Va. cemetery.

EPPLER SERVICES ARE HELD HERE

Funeral rites were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock in St. Paul's Lutheran church for Mrs. Catherine Wellington Eppler, 87, widow of William P. Eppler, who died Saturday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Delbert H. Gilpatrick, Greenville, S. C. The Rev. Nixon T. Bowers officiated at the services.

Pallbearers were Louis Lee, Marvin Self, James Patkin, Robert Webster, John A. Eppler and George L. Eppler.

A native of this city, Mrs. Eppler was a daughter of the late J. A. and Margaret Barbara Hoenig, Wellington.

Interment was in St. Luke's cemetery.

John McDonald Dies

John McDonald, 93, died yesterday morning at 5 o'clock at his home in Meyersdale, Pa.

A native of Eckhart, Mr. McDonald was a former coal miner. He was a member of the Eckhart Methodist church.

Surviving are one son, George McDonald, Cresaptown, and two daughters, Mrs. Annie Murphy, Akron, and Mrs. Katherine Holiday, Clarksburg, W. Va.

The body had been removed to the Hafer funeral home, this city.

Dom Rites Held

Funeral services for Henry T. Dom, 83, retired steelworker, were held yesterday in Johnstown, Pa.

For a year following his marriage in 1886, Mr. Dom lived in Hyndman after which he moved to Meyersdale where he, for a short time, was engaged in the sawmill business.

Following the death of 1889, he moved to Johnstown where he became a car inspector for the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

Gump Rites Held

Funeral rites for John C. Gump, 87, well known farmer and stockman of Whitley Township, Pa., were held yesterday in the Fairall Methodist church.

Mr. Gump was the father of Edward Gump, this city.

Painters Finish Job On North End Bridge Spanning Railroad

The work of scraping and painting the iron bridge spanning the Baltimore and Ohio railroad from Piedmont avenue to North Mechanic street has been completed by Matthews and Whitman, local painters.

After rust and thick soot was scraped from the structure a coat of black paint was applied. It required three weeks to complete the job.

While the job was being done, a sudden burst of smoke from a locomotive stack blew one of the boards loose from the floor of the bridge, according to the painters.

Sentence Is Suspended

Raymond E. Claggett, 1013 Grape alley, received a suspended sentence of $10 at a hearing before Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., in trial magistrates court yesterday when charged with driving on an expired instruction license.

Claggett was arrested Saturday on the Oldtown road, city, by Corp. John H. Doud.

ed and not adjourned until Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in Allegany Trades Council hall, in event the strike is not settled by that time.

The strike entered its seventh day yesterday and no men reported for work.

Present Resolution

The resolution read at yesterday's council meeting, and submitted by a committee representing A.P. of L. unions, said there is no law in the State of Maryland which forbade the signing of a union contract and in conclusion declared "this suspension of work is detrimental to the general welfare of all the citizens of Cumberland and that the committee requests the mayor and council to sign the contract which has been presented to them for their approval."

The committee included Fred B. Driscoll, Barbers; Harold A. Powell, Shoemakers Federation; Raymond Purinton, Trades council; treasurer; F. Patrick Allender and Grayson L. Lucas, Trades Council secretary.

West Virginia's "Captive" Mines Halt Operations

Over 12,000 Idle--Pickets Withdrawn in Southern Field

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 27 (AP)—West Virginia's "captive" coal mines, whose production in used exclusively by parent steel and chemical companies, quickly ceased operation today as a strike call issued to enforce a union shop demand became effective.

The walkout was set for midnight Saturday but the miners do not ordinarily work on Sunday.

United Mine Workers officials said only one "captive" operated today. That was the American Rolling Mill Company mine at Nellis, Boone county, which has signed a UMWA contract covering its approximately 300 workers.

Over 11,000 Idle

Between 11,000 and 12,000 miners were idle in Southern West Virginia and approximately 1,800 the Northern section.

Pickets were withdrawn by the UMWA in the Southern field after operators showed no inclination to attempt operations in defiance of the walkout.

A few field representatives of the union watched the situation at the five mines of the U. S. Coal and Coke Company but there was no picketing at the Gary, McDowell county operations.

Walkout Supervised

William Blizard, vice president of the UMWA District 17 with headquarters at Charleston, was in Welch to supervise the walkout. He said the customary policy of permitting maintenance forces in the mines prevailed.

The union claims a majority at all of the mines affected, including the independent Carter Coal Company which never has signed a union contract for its McDowell county mines.

Rizer Submits Costs For Improving Yale Street to Council

Ralph L. Rizer, city engineer, yesterday estimated that the cost of making improvements on Yale street, between Baltimore avenue and Calvin street, would be $42,970 in a report to the mayor and city council. The report explained the nature of the project and the reason for the high cost of constructing gutters, curbs, sidewalks and a hard-surfaced roadway.

Orders approved at the meeting included the payment of $122,500 to the sheriff of Mineral county for taxes on the airport property before it was purchased by the city; two for $15.15 each to Robert Jackson for court costs; $6.50 to George L. Carney for a change in assessment for a Waverly Terrace property; $7 to John J. Crowley for overcharge in water rent; John H. Reed $63.32 insolvency for Greenway avenue paving account; $10 Dingle Esso station for damage claim; $1,816.81, water insolvencies, and automobile and real estate insolvencies $2,511.29.

An application from the American Athletic Club, Inc., 68 North Mechanic street, for a soft drink license, was referred to the police department.

A. L. Brown, 505 Greenway avenue, offered to pay the full assessment of $968.54 for street paving on lots 19 and 20 if the city takes any portion of lot nine and cancels the paving bill on the latter. The latter was referred to the attorney and finance department.

Demands Freedom of Seas

Proclaiming that freedom of the seas is and always has been a fundamental policy of the American government, Mr. Roosevelt declared that "naturally we reject that absurd and insulting suggestion."

Bluntly, Mr. Roosevelt declared that the forward march of Hitlerism could and would be stopped.

"Very simply and very bluntly," he added, "we are pledged to pull our own oar in the destruction of Hitlerism."

He said that each passing day brought a greater arms production for warriors on the actual battlefronts. And it is the nation's will, he added, that these vital arms and supplies shall not be locked in American harbors nor sent to the bottom of the ocean.

"It is the nation's will," the president added, "that America shall deliver the goods. In open defiance of that will, our ships have been sunk and our sailors have been killed."

"I say that we do not propose to take this lying down."

"Our determination not to take it lying down has been expressed in the orders to the American navy to shoot on sight. Those orders stand."

Mr. Roosevelt made but a single and indirect reference to defense strikes, mentioning no dispute specifically nor any individuals by name.

The reference was in one brief paragraph, which followed a declaration that defense output must be multiplied. He said:

Reference to Strikes
"It can not be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of industrial managers who hold out for extra profits, or for 'business as usual.' It can not be hampered by the selfish obstruction of a small but dangerous minority of labor leaders who are a menace to the true cause of labor itself; as well as to the nation as a whole."

While Mr. Roosevelt spoke, America's mighty fleet was observing Navy Day in gala celebrations in port or on grim duty at sea.

and to the constructors who supervised the building."

Discussing shipbuilding, Forrestal said the two-ocean fleet would be constructed a full year ahead of schedule and should be completed by November, 1944.

Declares

bor itself, as well as to the nation as a whole."

Paying his respects to some critics of his foreign policy, he said they would continue to insist that Hitler's plans need not worry us—and their statements would be "paraded with applause through the Axis press and radio."

"The Nazis have made up their own list of modern American heroes," he said. "It is, fortunately, a short list. I am glad that it does not contain my name."

Broadcast to World

The speech was delivered before a notable gathering of navy, army and other leaders at a dinner of the Navy League, and was broadcast throughout much of the world.

In it, the chief executive advocated broadening of the program for revising the neutrality act to permit not only the arming of American merchant ships, but to let them also "be free to carry our American goods into the harbors of our friends."

Merchant ships must be protected by the navy, he declared.

The Senate Foreign Relations committee has recommended these revisions and Mr. Roosevelt said elimination of hamstringing provisions of the neutrality law "was the course of honesty and of realism."

Navy day this year had been set aside as a day of recognition for total national defense. And the first objective of that defense, he declared, "is to stop Hitler."

"He can be stopped and he is compelled to dig in," Mr. Roosevelt said, "and that will be the beginning of his downfall, because dictatorship of the Hitler type can live only through continuing victories — increasing conquest."

"The facts of 1918 are proof that a mighty German army and a tired German people can crumble rapidly and go to pieces when they are faced with successful resistance."

The chief executive went back over a bit of recent history since he proclaimed five months ago tonight the existence of a state of unlimited emergency. He recalled the sinking of American-owned merchant ships, the attack on the American destroyer Greer on September 4, and the torpedoing of the destroyer Kearny on October 17.

"We have wished to avoid shooting," the president said, "but the shooting has started. And history has recorded who fired the first shot. In the long run, however, all that will matter is who fired the last shot."

"America has been attacked. The U.S.S. Kearny is not just a navy ship. She belongs to every man, woman, and child in this nation."

Attack on Every American

"Hitler's torpedo was directed at every American, whether he lives on our sea coasts or in the innermost part of the nation, far from the seas and far from the guns and tanks of the marching hordes of would-be conquerors of the world."

"The purpose of Hitler's attack was to frighten the American people off the high seas—to force us to make a trembling retreat. This is not the first time he has misjudged the American spirit. That spirit is now aroused."

The president remarked that if American policy were to be dominated by the fear of shooting, all our ships and all those of our sister republics would have to be tied up in home harbors and our navy remain abjectly behind the Hitler-dominated line on any ocean.

Ultimate aim of the federal program, according to Nace, is to assist farmers to use their land to the best advantage and at the same time promote soil conservation.

Cellar Wall Is Slightly Damaged

Slight damage was done to a cellar wall in the home of A. L. Will 515 Williams street, when paper in a tub ignited. The blaze was extinguished by East Side Fire Company at 4:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Home Building Permit Issued to Fred R. Beck

Frederick R. Beck, of 520 Fourth street extended, yesterday obtained a permit from the city engineer for the construction of a one and a half story frame house at 41 Wempe drive. The cost is estimated at $1,500.

Sheriff, Detectives Attend FBI School

Sheriff Lucian C. Radcliffe and City Detectives R. E. Flynn and B. F. Gaffney are in Baltimore to attend a two-day civilian defense course under the auspices of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Delbert Payton Hurt

Delbert A. Payton, 39, of Long was treated yesterday morning at 9:15 o'clock in Allegany hospital dispensary for a lacerated right left finger.

Payton, a carpenter, told hospital attaches that the injury was suffered as he was using a joiner early yesterday morning.

Drowns in Fish Pond

ATLANTA, Oct. 27 (AP)—Two-year-old Donald Neil Barron accidentally fell into a backyard fish pond and drowned.

His mother, Mrs. Seward G. Barron, found him.

Clutched in the boy's arms was his pet puppy, a little bulldog.

Marine Officers Visit Cumberland To Aid Recruits

Two Marine recruiting officers are visiting Cumberland the first three days of this week to aid men of this district interested in enlisting in the Marine corps.

Sgt. Sidney W. Platt and Sgt. Joe M. Statton, of the Altoona division have opened an office on the second floor of the post office building and will conduct preliminary examinations before taking men to the Pittsburgh office for a complete examination.

U. S. Soil Conservation Office Is Opened Here

Preparatory to the formal organization of a soil conservation district for Allegany county, the United States Department of Agriculture has opened a soil conservation field office in the federal building, it was announced yesterday.

The office, which will seek to "type" every farm in the county, is in charge of W. W. Nace and Snyder von Day, soil technologists.

Ultimate aim of the federal program, according to Nace, is to assist farmers to use their land to the best advantage and at the same time promote soil conservation.

THE DAILY STORY

OLD TIMER

The Rain and the Mist and the River—They Were Things That Saddened Him. And Made Him Strong

How much do you think advertising costs?

...100 to 1 your guess is too high!

TAKE, for instance, a widely advertised can of soup which you purchase from your grocer for 10 cents.

Then ask your neighbor how much of that 10 cents goes for advertising. She'll probably say—"Oh, about 1 or 2 cents" or "10 to 20 percent."

That's where you can correct a great American illusion.

The actual cost is only 36/1000 of 1 cent.

But here's something else you can mention.

Actually advertising absorbs its cost because without the wide volume of sales brought about by advertising, the soup couldn't be sold for 10 cents. In fact, this soup 15 years ago cost you 12 cents retail. Advertising by expanding distribution and increasing sales made economies possible which cut 2 cents off the retail price of soup.

The same economic process works with most articles, autos, soap, cameras, hose, etc.

Advertising is the working man's friend, the low income man's friend because it continually acts to lower the cost of living. In the long run it actually costs nothing but is absorbed by the economies it makes possible—economies which are passed on to you in the form of lower prices, better value and better service.

WHAT TO DO!

FIRST — Make advertising your buying guide.

NEXT—When the argument comes up, correct the illusion that advertising costs a lot because it doesn't. Show them how it lowers prices by expanding sales and effecting the economies of mass distribution.

Dr. Myers suggests ways and means to solve problem

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.
I receive a great many letters similar to the following and I am always puzzled over how to answer them well. But I do answer them personally as I answered this one. Here is the letter and my reply.
"Dear Dr. Myers—I am 17 years old. My mother is dead, so my father and I live together. He was born in a foreign country and is about 62 years old.
"He will not allow me to go out with boys and explained, very emphatically, his reasons why. He said that anyone my age should not be seen on the streets after dark. He says that no boy that age knows his own mind or his future. He thinks going out is something immoral, and any boy who would take a girl out is immoral, and that any boy who would take a girl out is 'good-for-nothing.'

"If I come home after 10:00 or 10:30 he locks the door and will not allow me to come into the house. He is also very suspicious of me—even when I go out with girls. Every time I come home I am put on a routine quiz by him. Some of the questions he asks me are: 'Where have you been? Who did you go with?' 'I suppose there were boys with you?' and 'Who brought you home?' . . .
Girl's Serious Problem

"I do not think this wrong, because I think every parent has a right to know, more or less, where his children spend their time, but after each of these questions we have an argument. He thinks I do the worst things anyone could do. He thinks I would go to all kinds of road houses and such, but I don't because the crowd I go around with is not that kind.
"Of course I do not agree with him about not going on dates, and I would like to have good times like my friends do. We argue very frequently about this matter and I would appreciate it very much if you could offer me some suggestions on how to present my point of view to him in a convincing way. He reads your column in the paper and favors very highly your opinions. Enclosed is a stamped self-addressed envelope for this purpose."

The Doctor's Reply

I have read your letter with great sympathy, for I understand the problem you face.
Any 17-year-old girl in your place would feel as you do. On the other hand, most fathers with your father's upbringing are gravely concerned about protecting a motherless daughter. He probably had a strict background himself. Your hope is to win your father. You cannot do it by arguing. You might, however, succeed with quiet love. When he lays down the law to you, say nothing back. Let him talk. Wait till a later time when you and he are calm and quiet and you can be complete master of yourself.
Lean backwards to comply with his wishes but gradually win him to be more lenient. Let him know that you realize how eager he is to protect you. Try to get him to put himself in your place. Prove to him in all sorts of ways, and not with words, that he can trust you. Before you go out tell him where you expect to be. When you return, do not wait for his questioning to tell of your good times. Invite boys to your house. Coach them to show proper deference to Dad.

When you go out with one, return on the time you had agreed upon beforehand. Hope to win his consent to later hours very gradually, say half an hour at a time, and be sure to stick to your agreement. I believe you can win Dad in this way. But you must exercise great love and patience. Best wishes to you.

Garrett County
Red Cross Quota
Is Set at $1,200

Annual Drive Will Start
Armistice Day and Close Nov. 20

OAKLAND, Oct. 27.—Garrett county Red Cross officials have been notified the quota in the annual Red Cross roll call has been doubled this year, making the amount needed $1,200 instead of $600 as in previous years.

The annual drive will begin Armistice day, November 11, and continue officially until Thanksgiving. In Garrett county the solicitation continues until all communities have been thoroughly canvassed.

Mrs. Paul B. Naylor has been appointed roll call chairman for the county and she will appoint community chairmen in a short time. Last year the county contributed $525 in the drive.

The annual sale of Christmas tuberculosis seals will be inaugurated Thanksgiving day. This campaign is usually handled through the county health office.

The lighthouse design on this year's seals was conceived and painted by a former patient in the health center at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

To Seek Recruits

Sgt. Clarence Biehn, United States Army recruiting officer, has announced a regular routine of visits to towns in this area for the next several weeks in an effort to interest young men in joining the army.

Garrett county towns will be visited as follows: Friendsville every Wednesday and Friday, 9 to 11 a. m.; Oakland every Wednesday and Friday 12 to 3 p. m.; Kitzmiller every Wednesday and Friday 4 to 5 p. m.

First Heavy Frost

The mountain top had its heaviest frost of the autumn season Sunday morning with the temperature dropping to seventeen above zero. It was the first real killing frost of the fall and covered the ground like snow.

Churches Plan Services

Lutheran parishes of the mountain top area will unite in a service in commemoration of the Festival of the Reformation, at Red House Lutheran church Sunday evening, November 2.

This festival is usually observed the Sunday preceding October 31, but it will occur one week later this year.

At 7 o'clock the Aurora parish will have charge of the young people's service and at 7:45 Rev. A. B. Leamer, D. D., of Oakland, will preach the sermon at the regular worship service.

This celebration commemorates the act of Martin Luther when he nailed his theses to the door of the Castle church in Wittenberg.

Legion To Meet

George Donalds, commander of the Cheat Valley Post No. 101 of the American Legion stated that an important meeting will be held at the Graded school building in St. George, November 7. State speakers will be present and will discuss the importance of national defense to the people of this county.

The regular meeting of the legion was held Friday evening with Claude Shaffer, past post commander, Ellis J. VonHaven, and Commander Donalds discussing the necessity of all ex-service men joining the American Legion at this time.

Principals Meet

Tucker county Principals met at the Imperial hotel, Thomas, last Friday evening for election of officers. Jason Wolford, principal of Parsons high school, was elected president to succeed Felix Colabrese. Other officers elected were Ira McDowell, principal of Davis high school, vice-president and Steiman Harper, secretary.

Ralph Rowland, forest ranger for the Monongahela National Forest of Cheat district was guest speaker and urged the superintendent and principals to co-operate in organizing volunteer fire fighting crews. This has been necessary because we no longer have the Parsons CCC Camp to depend on.

Principals for the association this year include Felix Colabrese, Jason Wolford, Wayne Helmick, Martha Bombarger, Dale Ridgeway, S. W. Harper, J. H. Patterson, Naomi Williams, Reardon Cuppett, Earl Corcoran, Gertrude Auvil, R. E. King, Harold Shaffer, Allen Parsons and Kermit Collett. The next meeting of the association will be held in Davis on November 19.

To Have Parade

The Parsons Volunteer Fire Department will have charge of the annual Hallowe'en parade, Friday evening.

Cash prizes will be awarded to the couple having the most original costume, the best costume and the most ridiculous costume.

Students Are Injured

A car wreck on U. S. Route 210, one fourth of a mile south of Skyland Lodge, Sunday evening at 10:30, injured four Parsons high school students and three boys from Douglas and Coketon.

Carl Del Signore of Douglas, driver of the car, was taken to the office of Dr. Bolton and treated by Dr. Bolton and Dr. Clay for a deep laceration of the neck, caused when all of the windows of the car were broken as the car turned over several times, completely demolishing the car. Tom Martin of Coketon, owner of the car, was taken to the Tucker county hospital and treated for lacerations of the arms and body. Roy was taken to the office of a local physician and treated for lacerations of the scalp. Condition of Ruth Poffenberger and Freda Summerville could not be learned.

A sister, Mary Poffenberger, was taken to the Elkins City hospital for lacerations of the face. Rosalie Johnson was taken to Dr. Bolton and treated for deep bruises of the entire body. The four girls are students of Parsons high school.

State Trooper R. G. Coon and Corp. Gaile Busch of the state police are investigating the accident.

U. G. Lanham Dies

A sudden heart attack claimed the life of Ulysses Grant Lanham, 70, well known farmer and cattle raiser. Mr. Lanham died at his home at 8:30 p. m. Sunday evening. He was born near Buckhannon and came to Davis five-three years ago where he worked as a yard foreman for the Hapco and Boone Lumber Company.

Moorefield Fire Company Will Hold Dance November 28

Committee Is Named To Check and Repair All Equipment

MOOREFIELD, Oct. 27.—A dance will be held November 28 by the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company. This will be the first dance held by the firemen this year.

At a recent meeting R. L. Paskel, Louis Loving and Charles Kern were appointed a committee in charge of checking, repairing and refilling the fire extinguishers in the business houses of Moorefield. The firemen maintain the fire extinguishers in the town and check them each year.

A janitor to keep a fire in the truck and house was hired. Antifreeze was ordered for the Scagrave pumper and the building will be repainted and repaired in preparation for the cold weather. One section of the six-inch suction hose was ordered sent to Baltimore for repair.

John Fisher and Lantz Paskel were authorized to check the firemen's hats and equipment, including coats and uniforms, to see that everything is in shape for winter.

Pair Found Not Guilty in Cigarette Theft at Keyser Store on July 6

Judge Robert McV. Drane Directs Verdict in Circuit Court

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 27.—A verdict of not guilty was directed by Judge Robert McV. Drane this afternoon in the first criminal case before the present term of Mineral County Circuit Court—that of the state vs. John Newhouse and Clarence "Bud" Wenter, charged with breaking and entering the Prichard Corporation store here early in the morning of last July 6.

William Debaugh, clerk at the store, testified that $8.77 and from eight to fifteen cartons of cigarettes had been taken. Police Chief James E. Leatherman and Police-est Estel A. Miers told the jury that when they were called to investigate the robbery they found two cases containing cartons of cigarettes and four loose cartons on the roof of an adjoining building where they had been dropped from a third story window of the Prichard building.

Two other witnesses, Mark Wenter and Eddie McKee, said they saw two men leave a side entrance of the store located on the corner of Main and Armstrong streets, between 1:30 and 2:30 a. m., of the sixth of July, but were unable to identify them. Judge Drane directed the not guilty verdict when the jury failed to establish a connection between the robbery and the two defendants.

Attorneys J. Clark Bright and Ruth Tyler were appointed by the court to handle the defense. Prosecuting Attorney Joseph E. Hodgson acted for the state.

The trial of Newhouse and Wenter was interrupted briefly this afternoon while a jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff in the suit of John F. Rose and May Rose, proprietors of the Herald Printing House, Piedmont, vs. Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., Westport attorney.

Several thousand extra copies of the "Searchlight," a paper published by the late Dan McNally and printed at the Herald Printing House, had been turned out some time ago the roses contending the additional issues were printed at Whitworth's order. They asked $156 plus interest, totaling $175. The jury, which received the case shortly before noon, found for the plaintiff, awarding $156 without interest.

Only the two cases were tried today. The court was adjourned shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Tax Fears and Russian Situation Unsettle Sentiment in Stock Market

Leaders Are Off Fraction To More Than a Point at Close

By BERNARD S. O'HARA
NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Stocks furling their recovery sails in today's market and leaders backed fractionally to more than a point.

The tax spectre cast its shadow on the tobacco group and broke of 1 to 10 points among these issues had much to do with unsettling sentiment.

Aside from mounting tax worries, recovery contingents were handicapped by growing labor rifts seriously menacing defense output and fears the Russian war situation was much worse than had previously been revealed by the Red chiefs.

A number of good earnings statements, together with declarations of extra and special dividends, helped keep offerings relatively light throughout and enabled a small assortment of favorites to emerge with modest advances.

Average Is Off
The Associated Press average of sixty stocks fell 3/4 of a point at 41. Transfers totaled 478,800 shares compared with 699,301 last Friday.

Hitting tobacco stocks was the announcement of President George W. Hill of American Tobacco that, because of heavy taxes, he had recommended the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25, paid for nearly a decade, be cut 75 cents in the final three months of 1941.

Savage arms was up 1-2 on a hoisted dividend to $1 from 75 cents paid previously. An extra $1.25 for Sears Roebuck aided this stock to cut an early relapse to 1-8.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem steadied when this week's mill operations were estimated up to a new peak but the former was off 5-8 and the latter 1-8 at the last.

Prominent losers included General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, United Aircraft, Westinghouse, DuPont, International Harvester and American Smelting. Railroads, utilities, copper, oil, rubbers and motors were comparatively narrow.

Curb Irregular
In the curb minus signs were pinned on Gulf Oil, American Cyanamid, "B" American Gas, Lake Shore and Brewster Aero. Clinging to advances were Phoenix securities and creole petroleum. Volume here approximated 113,000 shares versus 118,000 in the preceding full session.

Bond market prices fluctuated within extremely narrow limits with the trend made a little uneven by slight concessions in the rails.

Trading fell off to $5,002,390, par value, the lowest in a month and compared with $8,221,200 last Friday.

U. S. governments displayed mild rising tendencies on the stock exchange with some 1-2 to around 4 of a point. A similar trend revealed over the counter where gains were held to small amounts.

Youthful Romance In "The Little Foxes"

Weaving a warm romance of youth through its gripping drama of an avaricious mother whose struggle for wealth and power ends in tragedy, Samuel Goldwyn's "The Little Foxes" now showing at the Liberty, stars Bette Davis as the selfish parent, Teresa Wright is her sheltered daughter, and Richard Carlson is the latter's reporter-sweetheart.

Laid in the Old South at the turn of the century when ambitious women were starting to participate in industry, the RKO Radio release is adapted from the highly successful Broadway play. Herbert Marshall and five members of the original stage cast have pivotal roles.

Russ Morgan's Band At Maryland Tomorrow

Russ Morgan, "Music in the Morgan Manner" and his orchestra will appear tomorrow at the Maryland theater through arrangements with Music Corporation of America.

Morgan has played many outstanding engagements throughout his lengthy career. Among the best known locations he has appeared at are the Biltmore Hotel, New York; Rice Hotel, Houston; Claridge Hotel, Memphis; Chez Paree, Chicago; Roosevelt Hotel, New Orleans; Casa Manana, Fort Worth; Paramount Theater, New York City; Paramount Theater, Los Angeles; International Casino, New York City; French Casino, New York City; Palace Hotel, San Francisco; Chase Hotel, St. Louis; Beverly Hills Country Club, Newport, Kentucky; and the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York—as well as many others from coast to coast.

"Music in the Morgan Manner" has been featured on several radio commercials, including the Rinso program over CBS 39 weeks and two years on Philip Morris, over NBC and CBS. He has had countless sustaining spots over all three major networks, and while at the Pennsylvania in New York he broadcast over both the Red and Blue networks of NBC.

Russ has made several movie shorts for Paramount and Warner Brothers and his records are among Decca's best sellers, especially his theme, "Does Your Heart Beat For Me."

Featured with Russ Morgan and his orchestra are outstanding vocalists.

Sea Yarn: Whoddy Told on the Screen

One of the greatest sea stories ever written came from the pen of the prolific Jack London; the title of this story is "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," and a more harrowing and thrilling sea tale has never been told. Now, it comes to the screen, and starting tomorrow it will be the feature attraction at the Embassy theater. Paul Lukas is the featured player in this film of man-made horror, mutiny.

Lukas, long a popular leading man in Hollywood, was born in Budapest, Hungary. He made his debut to stage stardom in the famous Ferenc Molnar play, "Liliom." After this glorious success, the screen claimed this handsome young man, and, to date, he has played in over one hundred pictures, and his impressive record grows steadily greater.

In portraying the role of Jack Pathurst in "The Mutiny of the Elsinore," Paul actually emulates the experience of the story's author, the eminent Jack London. In making his voyage on the Elsinore, Pathurst, an author, is looking for real sea atmosphere. He plans to write a sea story, and, never having had any experience with either the sea or boats, he decides to take a sea trip on the wind-jammer.

He gets more than he bargains for, because the voyage is anything but a calm trip. "The Captain of the Elsinore is murdered in cold blood, and the crew mutinies. Pathurst, who thought that he knew something of life, learns that men, in time of stress and in the heat of passion, can turn into vile beasts intent on killing or torturing each other.

$4,000 Opinion Makes $50,000 Scene Safe

Frank Capra spent $4,000 to get an opinion.

For an important sequence in "Meet John Doe," which he produced at Warner Bros. studio, Robert Riskin wrote two entirely different versions. Unable to decide which would best achieve the desired result, Capra engaged 350 extras as a testing audience.

Both scenes were played on the stage by Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck while Capra noted the audience reactions and made his decision accordingly.

"The scene costs about $50,000 to shoot. Spending $4,000 to play safe is like the proverbial ounce of prevention," remarked Capra later. "It's cheap, sure and quick." The picture is now at the Garden.

Veteran of a hundred films, Glenn Tryon, former star of stage and screen, makes his Universal debut as a director with the gay, romantic drama, "Double Date," currently screening at the Garden.

Keep Lakes Open

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Commerce department has announced that ice-breakers, special weather forecasts, aerial patrols and other services will be used to keep traffic moving on the Great Lakes as late as possible this year to facilitate movement of ore to defense industries.

"MUSIC IN THE MORGAN MANNER"

Russ Morgan and his "Music in the Morgan Manner" appears tomorrow in person at the Maryland theater. Morgan's "sweet" and "swing" music along with a host of entertainers which he features will thrill Cumberland audiences the same as he has thrilled audiences from coast to coast.

Stomach, Anatomy's Greatest Liar, Often Gets Blame for Other Ills

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The stomach has been called the greatest liar in anatomy, meaning it makes a fuss when there is nothing the matter with it, when the trouble is somewhere else.

Every once in a while some doctor goes over a series of cases of dyspepsia and analyzes the real cause of the symptoms. I have such a report before me. Twenty-five per cent of the cases were nervousness; nine per cent were due to ulcer of the stomach or duodenum; nine per cent were due to gall bladder disease; five per cent were due to heart disease; five per cent were due to migraine or sick headache; four per cent were due to constipation.

No cases were ascribed to chronic appendicitis, and since we often hear of chronic dyspepsia or indigestion ascribed to chronic appendicitis, this raises a question.

A Medical Myth

Chronic appendicitis is more or less of a myth, as my friend, Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, of the Mayo Clinic, has reported. Out in Kansas, Dr. Heltzer, the "Horse and Buggy Doctor," has been preaching for years that there is no such thing as chronic appendicitis. Of course, there is such a thing as acute appendicitis, and, theoretically,

SALLY'S SALLIES

Wisdom is common sense in a very uncommon degree, and tact is the ability to handle the truth with delicacy.

ally, there ought to be such a thing as chronic appendicitis. Why it does not happen, I don't know any more than I know why there is no such thing as chronic pneumonia.

Dr. Alvarez has gone over a number of cases in which the appendix was surgically removed on account of stomach symptoms or abdominal pain. He found that 24 per cent of the patients were worse off after the operation than they were before. In only two patients out of 400 did the removal of the appendix do the chronic indigestion any good—half of one per cent.

There is one very simple question which should immediately tell the doctor or the surgeon whether he should operate for "chronic appendicitis." The question is, did the patient ever have one or more attacks of acute abdominal pain severe enough to put him to bed and keep him awake much of one night or to cause the attending physician to suspect the presence of acute appendicitis?

These cases should be called "recurrent appendicitis," not chronic appendicitis. This was the only group of cases in which it was found that the removal of the appendix relieved the symptoms of chronic indigestion.

Dr. Alvarez wisely says—"How much better and more exact our science would be if we physicians could say to this kind of dyspepsia patient, 'Statistics show that in a case like yours, there is only one chance in a hundred that an appendectomy would help. If by temperament you are a gambler, you can choose to be operated on. I cannot advise you to take such long chances because always I must tell my patients what I believe is the wisest and safest course and the one most likely to lead to renewed health!'"

Questions and Answers

M. G.—"Are soft pretzels fattening? Is it true that hot dogs are fifty per cent fattening? If so, is there any way of preparing them to cook out most of the fat? When trying to reduce is rye bread better than white bread?"

Answer: Pretzels are among the most fattening things there are. Hot dogs—the sausages are forty per cent fat, the butter is eighty-five per cent fat, the bread is two per cent fat. There is no way to get the fat out and still have a hot dog. Rye bread for all practical purposes has the same starch.

Action Features Boys' Club Boxing Show

Francis Defeats Orville Jackson In Headline Bout

Washington Scrappers Win Two of Three Inter-City Battles

The Cumberland Police Boys club opened its 1941-42 indoor boxing season with an action-packed card of seven bouts last night at the State Armory and drew the largest crowd that turned out for the inaugural program apparently was well-satisfied.

Representatives of the Red Shield club of Washington, D. C., who met district scrappers in three of the matches, walked off with two of the bouts with Eddie Robinette, 138, of the Police Boys' club scoring the lone district victory.

The battle between Robinette, who was given the decision over Joe Wright, was probably the best of the card. The first round was even but Robinette, showing a lot of improvement along with an educated left jab which he kept showing in Wright's face, piled up points in the second and third.

Wright was on the verge of a knockout in the last of the second after being dropped for a count of eight. In the final round, Wright went down for a short count and was groggy at the bell.

Johnson Loses to Francis
Bill Francis, 150, of the Red Shield club, defeated Orville Jackson, of Probstburg, in the feature engagement. Francis piled up the points in the second and third rounds after a hard-fought opening chapter. The bout, full of action, pleased the customers.

In the semi-final, Bill Cross, 126, Red Shields club, was awarded an unpopular decision over Jim Cato, 126, of the Workers' Social club. All three rounds were practically even but Cross's punching was a little more harder and accurate. Cato went down for a short count in the third while Cross hit the canvas in the second.

In another fast battle, "Buck" Shober, 135, Police Boys' club, won the decision over Bill Luteman, fighting under the banner of Gene Kelly's Mohawk A. C. Although Shober was given all three rounds, Luteman put up a stubborn battle. Luteman took somewhat of a beating in the first and second rounds but staged a comeback in the third. However, he was unable to offset the margin piled up by Shober, who displayed a nice left jab and right cross, in the first two heats.

In the opening bout, Darrell Parker, 126, South End A. C., scored a technical knockout over George Buskey, 132, Mohawk A. C., in 1:35 of the third round. Referee "Red" Bender, who handled the first three bouts, stopped the fight.

Lisanti Gets Decision
Vic Metz, 159, Police Boys' club, made it two technical knockouts in a row when he stopped Roy Stallings, 160, unattached, after thirty-five seconds of the second round in the second contest. Stallings was knocked down for a count of eight in the first round.

Jimmy Childress, 129, Police Boys' club, and Tony Lisanti, 129, South End A. C., staged a crowd-pleasing contest in the fourth bout of the evening with Lisanti taking the decision. Childress wanted to hold on throughout the bout and the wrestling tactics adopted by Lisanti kept the fans in an uproar.

The Police Boys' club plans to stage the second in a series of indoor shows in November. Efforts will be made to match Hilton "Tarzan" Fitzpatrick, former West Virginia School for the Deaf athlete of Romney, with a suitable opponent.

Last night's officials were "Red" Bender and Jim Kelley, referees, with Kelley working the last four bouts; "Bobby" Cavanaugh and Jack O'Rourke, judges; Leo Barley, timer, and Tom Graham, announcer.

TECH TERROR

Down around Lubbock, Tex., they're singing the praises of this powerful young fellow, Charlie Dvoracek, a 191-pound, six-foot-one cruiser who batters down Texas Tech opposition from his fullback position. Exceptionally fast he's a blasting line driver and surprisingly elusive once he's shattered a forward wall. He averaged nearly six yards a try in ninety-four ball-carrying attempts for the Red Raiders last fall and is out to better that mark in his quest for All-America honors this year.

Storms Ahead
NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—More than a few of the untied and unbeaten survivors from October's heavy storm will keep wading into even deeper trouble this coming Saturday, Minnesota, Texas, Pennsylvania, Vanderbilt, Notre Dame, Army, Fordham and Temple are among the leaders who won't be picking violets when the next whistles blow.

Duke and Texas A. and M. look to be in somewhat gentler spots, although Georgia Tech has always been more than a slight annoyance for Duke. Duquesne may still have some trouble with Villanova. Last week Michigan, Santa Clara and Ohio State all slipped over the ledge. Others, unbeaten and untied so far, will take the big drop, where the main problem now is to guess the names of the departing at their next stops.

Minnesota-Northwestern
Minnesota will be in for another hard day. In the first place the big Gophers suffered several casualties on Saturday in the loss of Bruce Smith and Pukema, and further jolts to Prickey and Odson.

At least two of these may be out with the other two below par. In the second place Northwestern played Michigan to a standstill and Michigan gave Minnesota as even a battle as anyone might hope to see.

Young Graham of Northwestern is coming along like the western wind. Northwestern is equipped with enough to give the mighty but battered Gophers an even war.

Notre Dame-Army
One of these two must leave the happy highlands. Army's rebound from last fall under the brilliant coaching of Earl Blaik and staff has been one of the 1941 sensations. Army is always at its peak against Notre Dame. But Army apparently has too much to give away in reserve strength and passing skill. This should be Notre Dame's hardest test after an easy schedule to date, with Army facing heavy odds.

Vanderbilt-Tulane
Red Sanders of Vanderbilt is another coach who has contributed a fine job with a team that came to 1941 after two lean, ragged years. Beating Tulane is another matter. The Green Wave, beaten twice, is still a fast moving power house. But the Vanderbilt attack is improving each week back of a strong line. This will be another sizzling scramble from start to finish.

Fordham-Purdue
The unwhipped Ram is still headed for an unwhipped season. On Saturday Jimmy Crowley's blistering backfield will meet Purdue at her best, with a restored backfield ready to go.

I doubt there is a better all-around backfield in the game than Fordham's combination of speed, drive and passing.

Texas-Southern Methodist
When the season opened a great Texas squad seemed to face two stout obstacles. One was SMU. The other was Texas A. and M. Both will go all out to halt or roll back a Texas storm that has averaged nearly forty points a game.

So far it will be difficult to prove to any opponent that Texas isn't the country's top. The S. M. U. meeting will help to give a better answer.

Pennsylvania-Navy
In this game Navy's unbreakable defense, so far, will be tested to the limit against a Pennsylvania attack that can really get up and travel. Navy so far hasn't faced any such backfield as the Red and Blue can offer with Stiff and others who are big, fast and hard to haul down. Navy's offense must pick up quite a bit to have an even chance against a squad that can match Swede Larson's talent in reserve strength.

Temple-Boston College
This will be Temple's roughest party. After a slow start the Boston Eagles are flying now on stronger, faster wings.

In Tommie Temple has one of the best backs of the year. But Boston has her share of good backs who should be at their best for this game. A hard Temple test.

In the list outlined above I'd say that Army has the hardest job remaining on the unbeaten side. After this — Navy. Army and Navy are trading skill, speed and power with two of the best in football at this date. After this Vanderbilt looks to be in for rough surf, but the job hasn't nearly the indigo tinting it carried some weeks ago. There is also the chance that Minnesota may have a knotty problem to unravel. If Bruce Smith isn't ready, Bruce Smith is an A-1 all around brilliant—running, kicking, passing and defense. Temple is no sure thing. But it would be something of a jolt to see Fordham, Duke or Texas A. and M. driven from the uplands. The same is true of Texas, but Texas has much stiffer competition to handle against SMU at Dallas. It is also just as well to remember that as November arrives some teams are on their way up — others on their way down. Amazing changes can take place in these two shifts.

Exterminator Is Coming Back To Pimlico Oval

'Old Bones' Will Lead Field to Post in Distance Test

By MASON BRUNSON
BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—"Old Bones" Exterminator, gallant campaigner that answered a hundred calls to "boots and saddles" and returned to the winners' circle fifty times, is coming back to Pimlico tomorrow.

The 26-year-old veteran, one of the most popular and courageous horses the American turf has known, is making the trip from Court Manor, Va., to lead the field to the post Thursday for the Exterminator handicap, a race named for "Old Bones" himself.

Exterminator's appearance on the opening day of the Maryland jockey club's fall meeting will lend another bit of color and sentiment to a program featuring the fifth running of the $10,000 winner-take-all Pimlico Special.

Traveled Any Distance
Mrs. Willis Sharpe Kilmer, who owns Exterminator, told Alfred Vanderbilt, jockey club president, that she was shipping him to Pimlico only as a "partial expression of heartfelt gratitude" for "all you have done for American thoroughbred racing."

The Exterminator handicap, at two miles and seventy yards, was inaugurated last year and won by Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, the likely favorite for this year's running.

The race honors a horse that holds a unique place in the hearts of America's racing fans. Big, boney, gawky, gangling, Exterminator is not beauty. But all his races were honest efforts and he traveled any distance asked of him, no matter how much weight they loaded on his back.

Won 50 of 100 Starts
In eight years of racing, from 1917 through 1924, Exterminator won fifty of his 100 starts and earned $252,996. He won the 1918 Kentucky Derby, took down many cups, including the Pimlico cup three times, and was acclaimed as this nation's outstanding endurance runner.

Once again he's going postward in the green, brown and orange silks but this time his answer to the bugle call will be somewhat like that of an old soldier shuffling toward what may be his last parade.

Navy May Play In Bowl Battle If Undefeated

Some Chance Despite Considerable Precedent to Contrary

By BILL BONI
NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Despite considerable precedent to the contrary, there appears to be some chance that Navy's as yet unbeaten football team will consider an invitation to play in a post-season game if they finish their regular campaign undefeated.

The direct question was put to Coach Swede Larson at today's luncheon of the New York football writers, and the major's reply ran as follows:

"Offhand, my answer would be 'no,' chiefly because of our speeded-up graduation under which the current seniors will finish their courses Dec. 19. But I'd like to see it put to the test, by means of an out-and-out invitation."

The last time Navy appeared in a bowl game was in 1924, when the Middies tied Washington 14-14 in the Rose Bowl. In 1930 the two service schools resumed gridiron relations in a post-season charity game which Army won, 6-0.

Larson, appropriately the main speaker (this being Navy Day) put in the season's best plug for a line-man that has been heard so far. Object of the major's admiration was Endicott (Chub) Peabody, 2nd, of Syracuse, N. Y., the Harvard guard whose smashing defensive play was the main factor in giving Harvard a scoreless tie last Saturday.

"That boy," said Larson, "simply disrupted our offense—and we had considered it a pretty fine one. His tackling was fierce, and he made his tackles all over the field. He was the reason for our fumbles."

"How much," someone wanted to know, "does Peabody weigh?"

"The last time I saw him," was the response, "he weighed 310 pounds. That was when he crashed through to drive at least three blockers into our last-hope try for a field goal."

Navy next goes up against Penn, the Ivy League's unconquered defending champs.

Coaches' Sidelines Ornithologist and Oologist-- That's Harlow of Harvard

By STEVE O'LEARY

BOSTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Dick Harlow, who gained coaching stature by building better mousetraps for Harvard's gridiron opponents, has expanded a hobby which also gained him fame—the pursuit of rare birds and their eggs—to devote more of his leisure to the collection and study of ferns.

This should not be surprising, for Harlow's knowledge in the realm of botany is equal to his omniscience in ornithology and oology. In other words, the guy knows just as much about plants and flowers as he does about birds—particularly the rarer types—and their eggs.

This new interest is no passing fancy, either. This summer Dick was host at his Pocono mountains retreat to the National Rock Garden Association. And those learned botanists don't fool around with the backyard rock gardener.

He followed that up with a 1,000-mile trip to Hanover, N. H., which the football fan might think was made just to talk with "Tuss" McLaughry, the new Dartmouth coach, about football matters.

"Sure," Tuss and I talked football," Dick admitted. "But I really went up there on the invitation of Dr. Frederick Lord and Harold Rugg, the Dartmouth librarian."

"You know, Harold has all kinds of ferns up there and among them were about ten varieties I had never seen."

On his way to Hanover, he stopped off at Boston College to visit coach Denny Myers and talk football. But Al McCoy, Harlow's new backfield aide, insists it was to get a look as well at the ferns in which that area abounds.

"Why he's got his whole staff helping him," McCoy said. "He's even got me to spell Poly-pode-dical . . . which ought to make me an expert."

"If you were, you would be a pteridologist," chuckled Harlow. "I guess I'll just be a backfield coach," said McCoy.

So, Harlow now is a pteridologist in addition to being an eminent ornithologist and oologist. He's ranked among the ten first ornithologists in America and his delvings into the branch of that science which treats of the eggs of birds has won him the appointment of curator of oology in the Harvard Museum of comparative zoology.

Think of that this fall when you see the seductive mousetrap open in the Harvard line as the intricate Harlow running attack gets under way.

The husky, balding coach will be sitting on the bench with an eagle eye cocked on the battling elevens. But somewhere in the corner of his mind probably, he'll be thinking about the afternoon of a fern.

"No Excuse" for Loss To Kentucky, Coach Tells Mountaineers

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 27 (AP)—Coach Bill Kern told his West Virginia university football team today that "there wasn't any excuse" for the 18-6 loss to Kentucky at Lexington last Saturday.

Kern, drilling the squad for the annual game with Washington and Lee university at Charleston this Saturday, declared that poor judgment coupled with "frantic plays" near the goal line brought about the defeat.

During the practice session, Kern sent Bill Gardner of Charleston to right halfback and indicated that the Kanawha county gridders would replace Dick McElwee in that post against the Generals.

'41 Major League Games Attracted 10,250,208 Fans

Some Clubs Made Great Gains, Others Took Nose Dives

By JUDSON BAILEY

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—Major league baseball attracted ten and a quarter million fans through the turnstiles during the 1941 season, but it was a year of mixed success.

Unofficial figures assembled since the close of the campaign show the American League drew 5,220,519 and the National League 5,029,689 for a combined total of 10,250,208.

This was a decrease of 31,883 from 1940, which means that in spite of war tension, higher costs of living and other obstacles, major league baseball almost held its own.

Chaotic Season
Yet it was a chaotic year which saw some clubs making great gains and others taking incredible nose dives.

The Detroit Tigers, who won the American League pennant and drew more than a million admissions in 1940, saw their attendance fall off 400,436 and the New York Yankees, who overwhelmed all opposition and regained the world championship, dropped 24,253 on their season's attendance.

Thus Detroit's attendance collapsed because it didn't have a winning team and the Yankees lagged because they were too good. The red hot race in the National League was a mint for the pennant-winning Brooklyn Dodgers and the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Redbirds increased their gate 287,590 and the Dodgers went up 244,772 to pass the million mark for the second time in three years. Their total of 1,215,772 was a new record for a Brooklyn club.

A's Show Big Increase
Four other clubs in the senior circuit suffered decreases ranging up to 210,344 for Cincinnati, where interest withered when the Reds couldn't stay on top.

The big business done by Brooklyn and the Cardinals, however, caused the National League as a whole to gain 181,389 over last year. The American League slipped back 213,272 because of the Tigers' reversal, but four clubs showed gains. The most surprising increase in the junior circuit was the Philadelphia Athletics, who gave old Connie Mack one of his best years financially since the A's great Pennant years.

Old Professor — What's wrong, Mr. Kimbrough? Everything or it seems to me that we did everything wrong against the Aggies. But Norton certainly has a great ball team.

Homer Norton, Texas Aggies—My boys didn't show any signs of being green through inexperience, and that's the good sign I've been waiting for. They were calm and deliberate. Right now, though, all we're interested in is next week's Arkansas game.

Old Professor — Mr. Horrell, what's brewing? Babe Horrell, UCLA — Our "it" I guess. It's the first time this season we've really shown what the formation can do. We've had wet fields before. We'll show a lot more, now we have found ourselves.

Tex Oliver, Oregon — We weren't thinking about the Rose Bowl. The Bruins just outplayed us. They were alert, and charging hard.

Old Professor — Speaking of charge, that reminds me. Mr. Don Faurot, you seem quite chipper. Will you please run down and order some flowers sent to Buck Shaw. He probably isn't feeling so well today. And just charge them to me. Mr. Sanders, please wipe that grin off your face.

Ed Sanders, Vanderbilt — Can't help it. I guess we did all right, although we'll have to do better to beat Tulane Saturday. We certainly did better than last year. Princeton beat us then, you know.

Tad Wieman, Princeton—Vanderbilt has a great team and it should go far. It's too bad Captain Peters wasn't in shape. Maybe this wouldn't have happened.

Old Professor—Maybe not, maybe not. Mr. Brown, you don't seem downhearted?

Paul Brown, Ohio State — No sir. We lost to a better team and we can hold our heads up. Northwestern had too much backfield power for us.

Lynn Waldorf, Northwestern — When I'm glad that's over. Ohio State is better in a pinch than Michigan. Imagine those Bucks halting us twice on the one-foot line and once on the ten-yard line. Brownie has done a great job with the material at hand.

Old Professor — Spoken like a gentleman. What's that, Mr. Phelan? You say you made a long drive? Golf or automobile?

Jimmy Phelan, Washington — Neither, sir. I was just saying that Stanford had more drive last Saturday than last year's Rose bowl winner. I don't see how anyone can stop it the rest of the way. We'd have lost by twenty points if it hadn't been for our center, Walt Harrison.

The SPORT TRAIL

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (The Special News Service) — The Old Professor, mumbering to himself, was checking over the list of undefeated and untied teams as his Monday morning class of football coaches filed in, one step after another.

Old Professor — Minnesota, Duke, Texas, Army — hey, hey, no Navy. Where's the Navy? A one-ocean navy, a two-ocean navy, a rowboat. Any kind of navy. It was here last week.

Swede Larson, Navy — Sorry, Professor, we were sunk last Saturday. We came to the Harvard stadium expecting to win and got our ears pinned back. That Peabody and Prister are a pair of guards who could play on anybody's team. They ruined our timing. Harvard either is much better than we expected or Navy has been greatly over-rated.

Dick Harlow, Harvard — When, excuse me, Professor. I can't say a word. My boys were wonderful. Old Professor — Mr. Crisler, did you like the Minnesota team?

Fritz Crisler, Michigan — Minnesota team or teams. The turning point seemed to have been Smith's long punt that put us back on our heels. Say, with all those sophomores on hand do you think we are ever going to beat Minnesota?

Bernie Bierman, Minnesota — I thought it was a real championship, hard-hitting game from start to finish. My fullback, Bill Daley, played sixty minutes of good football despite a toe injury, and all my boys deserve credit. Say, that Bob Westfall can smack that line, and Tom Kuzma looks like the real article.

Old Professor — What's wrong, Mr. Kimbrough? Everything or it seems to me that we did everything wrong against the Aggies. But Norton certainly has a great ball team.

Homer Norton, Texas Aggies—My boys didn't show any signs of being green through inexperience, and that's the good sign I've been waiting for. They were calm and deliberate. Right now, though, all we're interested in is next week's Arkansas game.

Vandy Football Makes Comeback Under Sanders

Youthful Coach Just an Understudy during Playing Days

By ESCAR THOMPSON

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 27 (AP)—A fellow who was stand-in for the star in his undergraduate days at Vanderbilt has lifted the Commodores from the bottom to the top in the Southeastern Conference, and in the short span of a year and a half.

He is 36-year-old Coach Henry R. (Red) Sanders, understudy in the mid-twenties to Bill Spears, one of Vanderbilt's greatest quarterbacks.

Formula Is Simple
The formula Sanders has drilled into his boys, who have overpowered five straight opponents for the lone unblemished record in the Southeastern has been simple, noggin-to-noggin football.

There has been no legerdemain, no razzle-dazzle, nothing more complex than a reverse pass play which clicked for two touchdowns against Kentucky, but the Commodores have won from Purdue, Tennessee Tech, Kentucky, Georgia Tech and Princeton, with the score close only against Purdue.

The chunky, black-haired Sanders who beckoned to Vanderbilt two years ago when Ray Morrison transplanted his "aerial circus" to Temple.

20 Sophs on Squad
Moving in from Louisiana State where he was backfield coach, Sanders recruited Paul (Bear) Bryant from Alabama to tutor the line and Herc Allee, former Tennessee end, to coach the wingmen.

This trio went to work earnestly, but the material wasn't there and the best they could do last fall was to trip three "breather" foes, tie Kentucky and drop the other major games.

But they had imbued the squad with a will to scrap this fall and the result has been a hard-charging, gang-tackling aggregation that never quits.

And to top it off, twenty of the thirty-five squad members are sophomores which certainly enhances Commodore prospects for the future.

Game Wardens Name Burrell President

The Allegheny County Game Wardens' Association, at a meeting at the home of George Parker, McMullen highway, elected Andrew Burrell, of Cresaptown, president.

Other officers are George Parker, vice-president; Harry Vogel, Cumberland, secretary-treasurer, and Dr. G. Frank Malin and Percy Sowers, Cumberland, publicity agents.

Joseph A. Minke, Battle Mison, and Frances Ruge conducted a school of instruction following the business session. Present game laws and regulations were discussed. The association adopted ten commandments of nirodomic law which it hopes will decrease the number of hunting accidents.

was the first test of our reorganized lineup, and the team will start improving from now on. Frankie Albert was brilliant. You can't say anything too good about him.

Old Professor — Seems to me I've heard that name before. Well, gentlemen, I'm sorry the rest of you haven't time to rehe. Is Red Dawson here today? Oh, so he has headache too. Better make that two orders of flowers. And better charge them up to overhead. The perfumed aspirin demand keeps me broke. Good day, gentlemen.

Eighty-Seven Men Will Be Examined Here for Army

Draftees from Three Counties Will Report at 8:30 This Morning

Eighty-seven men from three counties in Western Maryland will report to Selective Service officials at the new army examination center in Memorial hospital this morning at 8:30 o'clock for physical examinations.

The contingent, which will include eighty-two white and five colored men, is the first to be sent here under a new plan to be followed in inducting men into the army under the Selective Service act. The men will come from Local Draft Boards in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. Previously men who were drafted went to Baltimore for examination and induction.

Make Preparations
Capt. G. E. Royer, and a staff of twenty-one assistants from the Baltimore examination station arrived here yesterday to make preparations for today's examinations. Capt. Royer will be in charge and will be assisted by the men from Baltimore and ten local physicians and dentists.

Those from Baltimore who will assist Capt. Royer are:

Major G. E. Yarbrough, Capt. S. E. Woodhouse and Lieut. H. E. Garrett, Corporals McDevitt, Serdick, Lynch and Chickacki, Sergeants E. Valenti, Zoharoff, Butler, McConnell, Harumet, Dornow, Orosky, Fowler, Makos, Barchetti, Tanner, Burns and Sears. Privates First Class Wenzel and Hastings.

Dr. A. H. Hawkins of Cumberland, chairman of the Medical Board, of Allegany County and the following local physicians and dentists will assist in the examinations. They are:

Local Men Assisting

Dr. H. R. Williams, Dr. S. M. Jacobson, Dr. S. E. Enfield, Dr. L. E. Daugherty, Dr. H. T. Robinson, Dr. D. B. Grove, Dr. H. R. Barchetti, Dr. P. M. Wilson, Dr. E. L. Jones, Jr., and Dr. A. P. Dixon.

Men who are accepted by the Examination board will be given at least ten days to wind up business and personal affairs before reporting to replacement centers.

The new system is patterned after the so-called "Pennsylvania plan," which allows men to be examined at points near their home and then allowed ten days to wind up their affairs.

Col. Amos B. Koonitz, medical director of State Selective service and Col. C. H. Bryant, assistant director of State Selective service, both of Baltimore, will confer with draft officials here tonight at 9 o'clock at Local Draft Board No. 2 headquarters in the Union street school building. Col. Koonitz will meet with local medical boards and Col. Bryant will confer with local draft board officials.

Legislative Group Meets Here Today

State Council To Hear Views of County Citizens at City Hall

Hearings to determine the wishes of Allegany county citizens concerning proposed legislation will be held today at city hall by the Maryland State Legislative Council.

The session, one in a series of such meetings, planned by the four-member advisory group at each county seat in Maryland, will get underway at 1:30 p. m. and after recess for dinner will resume at 8 p. m.

Members of the board of county commissioners and representatives of the municipal governments of Cumberland and other incorporated towns of the county have been asked to appear, and it is expected that the chamber of commerce, other business interests and labor organizations will also be represented.

Thomas E. Conlon, speaker of the House of Delegates and vice-president of the council, will preside. State Senator Robert B. Kimble and Delegate J. Milton Dick, both of Allegany county, are members of the council, which consists of seven members of each house of the General Assembly and which is charged with the responsibility of preparing a legislative program prior to sessions of the legislature.

Although the next regular session of the General Assembly is not scheduled until January, 1943, it is expected that a special session will be called this winter by Governor O'Connor.

Members of the council and other members of the Allegany county delegation in the House of Delegates will be guests of the board of directors and the Legislative committee of the chamber of commerce at a dinner this evening at the Fort Cumberland hotel.

Charges Are Dismissed

Charges of careless driving were dismissed by Magistrate Frank A. Perdue in police court yesterday against C. E. Ryder, Holland street, and Mrs. D. J. Brinker, 517 Oldtown road.

They were arrested Saturday at 1:30 p. m. on Maryland avenue by Officers W. P. Crabtree and C. J. Stouffer after a minor accident.

Garrett Grand Jury Recalled To Probe Grantsville Slaying

Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan yesterday ordered the Garrett county grand jury for the September term of circuit court recalled November 7 to act on the shotgun slaying of Jacob Stevey, 57-year-old Garrett county miner.

Stevy died in Miners hospital, Frostburg, Thursday as a result of a shotgun wound in his left temple, and State's Attorney Neil C. Fraley announced the following day that the victim's 24-year-old wife, his "child bride" of eleven years ago, had confessed the slaying.

Mrs. Stevey, who said she was married to her husband when she was 13 years old, is being held without bail on a murder charge in the county jail at Oakland pending a preliminary hearing today before Magistrate C. S. Zeller at Grantsville. The slaying occurred at the Stevey home near Grantsville.

According to Fraley, Mrs. Stevey, an expectant mother, said she killed her husband because she feared he was losing his mind and might carry out his frequent threats that he was going to kill her and their three children.

In the event an indictment is returned by the grand jury, the petit jury panel for the September term will be recalled to try the case, Fraley said.

Carpenters Vote To Back Workers In Local Strike

Council Postpones Two Meetings; Resolution Is Presented

Action by Local 1024, Carpenters Union, yesterday to lend 100 per cent support to Local 812, Municipal Employees' Union, in the latter's efforts to negotiate a contract covering working conditions for the street and water departments with the City of Cumberland, was the latest development in the local strike situation in which seventy-eight employees have been idle since Tuesday, October 21.

A second appeal asking the mayor and city council to sign an agreement was made yesterday morning by A. P. of L. unions at city hall but the request failed to produce satisfaction.

The resolution was read by Samuel E. Griminger, city clerk, at the regular weekly meeting of mayor and council and on the motion of Mayor Irvine was referred to an executive session in the mayor's office.

Seated in the council chamber were about two dozen of the striking employees along with A. P. of L. leaders.

After the formal meeting of the council, P. Patrick Allender, business agent for the building trades unions, went to the mayor's office and asked for permission to sit in on the executive session. This request was refused, the mayor informing Allender that the union would be informed of the council's action.

The executive session, scheduled for the morning failed to materialize when Charles Z. Heskett, city attorney, did not arrive from Keyser, W. Va., where he was transacting legal business pertaining to the airport.

Two Meetings Postponed

A second postponement in the afternoon came about when the mayor attended "another important" meeting and the city attorney also failed to put in his appearance. Commissioners James Orr, William J. Edwards and Edgar H. Reynolds visited the mayor's office and then departed when informed that Irvine and Heskett had not shown up.

Allender and a group of union men, who had gathered to await the outcome of the executive session, left the building keenly disappointed after the afternoon session was called off.

The local business agent last evening stressed the fact that Sunday afternoon's meeting of the A.F.L. representatives was necessary. (Continued on Page 10, Col. 2)

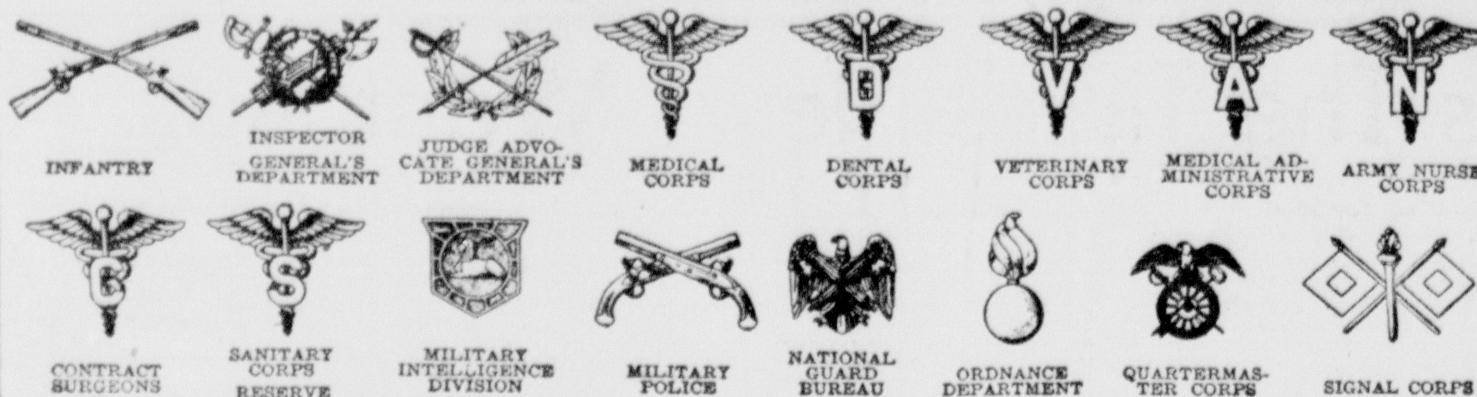

70-year-old Explosion Victim Says He Never Will Forget 'Ball of Fire'

Red Cross Provides Clothing for George Lipscomb's Trip Home

A 70-year-old fountain pen salesman, who suffered serious burns about the head and body in the North Centre street explosion October 2, left yesterday at 3:54 p. m. for a Baltimore and Ohio train for the home of his sister, Miss Sarah Lipscomb, Harper's Ferry, W. Va., after being a patient in Allegany hospital for twenty-five days.

George Lipscomb, thanks to the Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross, was completely outfitted from head to foot, to make the homeward journey. Seated in a wheel chair which was provided by the railroad, the salesman, who admitted he was still a "bit wobbly," wore a gray herringbone suit, black shoes and gray fur felt hat.

Recovery Is Remarkable
Red Cross officials declared that

Print Contest Winners Named By Camera Club

King and Christopher Cop Top Awards; Outing to Washington Planned

Prize winners in two print contests were named and plans for a photographic outing to Washington, D. C., were announced last night at the semi-monthly meeting of the Cumberland Miniature Camera Club in Knights of Malta hall, Prospect square.

In the "Barns" print competition John King adjudged winner of first place, Robert Snowden was runner-up; Leo Leasure captured third and fourth places and Morris Fram was fifth.

Christopher Is Winner

J. C. Christopher's print won first place in the Skating Party Contest, staged recently at Crystal Park. Morris Fram annexed second and third places and Robert Snowden took fourth and fifth prizes.

Judges were Dr. A. G. T. Twigg, J. C. Christopher, Charles Jones and Eugene Fleischhauer, a member of the United States merchant marine, who is home on leave.

The club announced plans for a photographic outing to Washington, D. C., Sunday, November 9, for members and their friends. A special car will be chartered on the B. & O. railroad for the trip. Reservations must be made at Harvey's Jewelry store, Baltimore street.

Will Show Movies

Movies on "How To Make Color Prints" will be shown at the annual meeting, banquet and election on November 10 at Malta hall. The subject of the print contest on November 24 will be "Halloween."

It was announced at the local club's traveling salon is being exhibited in Oklahoma City this week and will move into the State of Texas next week.

Maccabees Will Hear District Head Speak At Meeting on Nov. 3

W. O. Hayes, district manager of the Maccabees, will address the local Maccabees Club at a special meeting Monday, November 3, at 8 p. m. in the Maccabees hall, 24 Bedford street.

The Maccabees, oldest fraternal insurance organization in the world, maintains homes for the aged and disabled at Alma, Mich., Portland, Ore., and Chatham, Pa.

A Halloween party will be sponsored by the club Thursday, October 30, at 8 p. m. in the local hall. Members, their wives, families and friends are invited to attend.

DRUNKEN DRIVER GOES TO JAIL

Convicted in trial magistrates court yesterday of drunken driving, Boyd Malcolm, Chaik Hill, Pa., was committed to the county jail for sixty days when he was unable to pay a fine of $100 and costs at a hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdue.

An additional five days was added to the sentence on a charge of failing to keep to the right center of the road.

Malcolm was arrested Sunday morning at 11:30 o'clock on Route 40, six miles west of here, by Trooper Frank Beamer when he almost ran a police car off the road. Malcolm told officers the eccentric driving was caused by a tire that was almost flat.

POLICE AND FIREMEN WILL STAGE ANNUAL DANCE NOVEMBER 28

Arrangements for the nineteenth annual dance of the Cumberland Police and Firemen's Welfare Association were completed last evening with the announcement by Officer James J. Condon, chairman, that the event will be held Friday, November 28 at the state armory.

Music for the dancing which will hold sway from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m., will be provided by the Society Ramblers.

Committee members assisting Condon are Sgt. Raymond Johnson, John Newhouse, Robert Emmett Flynn, Robert V. Chisholm, James Davis and Thomas T. Griffin, of the police department, and Capt. John Brennan, Thomas Gray and Walter Jenkins, of the fire department.

Tickets for the dance will go on sale tomorrow and may be purchased from members of the police and fire departments.

Committee Reports Show Scope Of Activities of Local Jaycees

Hallow'en Pranksters And Parents Warned Will Elect Director To Fill Vacancy at Meeting Nov. 4

Police Commissioner James Orr issued a warning to Hallow'en pranksters and their parents last night as the result of children pulling what he said they considered "Hallow'en pranks."

Orr said that parents of children caught damaging property this week in the pre-Hallow'en season would be held responsible for whatever damage the children caused.

The commissioner issued the warning after he said police headquarters were literally "swamped" with calls from all sections of the city from property owners who reported Hallow'en pranksters had been disturbing them.

Postmaster James C. Shriver is in receipt of a letter from Postmaster General Frank C. Walker in connection with the sale of national defense bonds and savings stamps, noting that the postmaster general will discuss the whole program over an NBC network tonight between 8 and 9 o'clock.

The local postmaster is anxious that Cumberland residents hear the address.

"National defense bonds and savings stamps have been on sale through post offices since May 1, 1941, during which time it has been the policy of the Post Office department to act merely as sales agencies for the bonds and stamps," Walker stated.

"The results that have thus far been attained have been most encouraging. Bond and stamp sales mean more guns, ships, ordinance, and all the other implements of modern warfare which are so vitally needed by the United States today as we go all-out on the great national defense effort on which we are now embarked."

"It is felt that there are millions of Americans who through no fault of their own have not been fully acquainted with all the features of the bond and stamp program. Not only do sales of defense bonds and stamps contribute vitally to our own national defense and future security and thus help our nation, but also there are important advantages that accrue to bond and stamp purchasers in relation to their own investment and future financial security."

"For this reason, the Post Office department, in conjunction with the Treasury department, is about to undertake a nation-wide educational and informational program, designed to bring home to every American his responsibility in participating in the bond and stamp program and also the benefits that he personally will derive through the purchase of defense bonds and stamps."

"The program that has been formulated by the Post Office department is not one of high-pressure activity. On the contrary, it is to be forthright appeal to the American people from the standpoint of patriotism, investment, and thrift."

Dr. Samuel Jacobson reported at length on the Health committee's activities, and was authorized to proceed with preliminary plans he outlined for 1942 activities.

Meeting November 4

The board called a general membership business meeting for November 4, at which time a director will be elected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of John Morlock. At that meeting several projects will be outlined and discussed and the members will be urged to offer suggestions and ideas.

Charles M. French of Richmond, Va., Membership chairman of the State of Virginia, was a guest at the meeting. He explained the operation of his committee and offered a number of suggestions to the local board. He complimented the board upon the progress the association has made in its two years of existence, and urged even more interest in civic affairs. He stated education of members is of primary importance, and that every member should be given some task for which he is qualified and each man should be active in a specific project.

Three applications for membership were approved, including Lawrence Kyle, Edward Diehl and Raymond W. Hahne.

Kingsley Pastor Heads Methodist Ministers' Group

The Rev. H. A. Kester Named President; Conference Scheduled Nov. 24

Officers were elected the state group hospitalization plan was approved and Monday, November 24 was the date fixed for the annual Hagerstown district conference here, at the annual meeting of the Cumberland Methodist Ministers' Association yesterday in the Central Y.M.C.A.

The Rev. H. A. Kester, of Kingsley church, Cumberland, was elected president of the association for the ensuing year. Other officers elected were the Rev. S. R. Neel, Trinity church, Cumberland, vice-president; the Rev. Lewis P. Ransom, Lonaconing, secretary, and the Rev. Noel B. Blackburn, of Hyndman, Pa., treasurer.

A program committee comprising the Rev. Charles M. LeFev, Grace church, Cumberland; the Rev. W. M. White, of the Cumberland circuit, and the Rev. A. Odell Osteen, of Bethel church, Union Grove, also was elected.

The association approved the group hospitalization or Blue Cross plan for ministers, and ten members of the group expressed a desire to join the unit. The plan was presented by the Rev. Alfred L. Creager, pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical and Reformed church.

It was announced that Bishop Adna W. Leonard, of Washington, will be the guest speaker at the annual district conference November 24 in Centre Street Methodist Church. Sessions will be held at 10 a. m., 2 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. The Rev. O. B. Langral, of Hagerstown, newly appointed district superintendent, will preside.

NEW GERMANY SKI TRAIL IS IMPROVED

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP)—When the snow flies, Southern skiers are going to find an improved course at the New Germany development of the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks.

State Forester F. W. Chesley said today that work of clearing new trails and improving old trails had been in progress throughout the summer. Biggest project has been improvement of the Whiskey hollow trail for experts, which drops 800 feet in less than two-thirds of a mile.

Besley said that yesterday a group of experts from the Washington Ski Club visited New Germany to suggest further improvements for the coming season and to study proposals for new trails. It was the Washington Ski Club which originally sponsored the New Germany project, now going into its third year.

Forest and Parks Commissioner Bernard I. Gonder reported to Besley that the Garrett County Commissioners had agreed to keep roads in the vicinity clear throughout the winter.

Clayton Forfeits Bond

Donald Clayton, Patterson avenue, forfeited $10 bond when he failed to appear in police court yesterday for a hearing before Magistrate Frank A. Perdue on a charge of disorderly conduct. Charles Reed, Whitmer, W. Va., was fined $5 on the same charge.

The men were arrested Sunday morning at 4:20 o'clock in a Decatur street rooming house by local police for fighting.

Reed said he hit Clayton after the latter slapped his sister.

Spring Forest Fires Cost $5,921, Swept 2,712 Acres, Report Shows

Forest Warden Appeals for Aid in Preventing Fall Woods Blazes

Of the $5,921.73 cost shown in the report, $4,263.62 is the estimated damage to timberland, and $1,658.11 represents the expenses of battling the blazes, including $300 paid to the Civilian Conservation Corps for its assistance.

Careless smokers caused the largest number of fires, but incendiary blazes swept the largest area and caused the greatest damage, Wigfield pointed out. The sixteen incendiary fires swept 1,668 acres, caused damages of $2,644 and cost $863.91 to suppress, while the thirty-six blazes blamed on smoking burned over 400 acres, caused damage estimated at $1,091.67 and cost $381.49 to fight.

Nearly half the fires were caused by careless smokers, the report showed, listing thirty-six as started. Sixteen were of incendiary origin, fourteen were due to brush-burning, seven were started from camp-fires, four were blamed on railroads and two were attributed to "miscellaneous" causes.

NAACP Will Invest Community Center Funds for Defense

A patriotic step was taken last night by the Cumberland branch of the National Association of Colored People when its executive board, meeting in Carver high school, Frederick street, voted to purchase government defense bonds with the funds already raised for the erection of a community center for colored people.

Lewine Weaver, president, said that approximately $500 has been contributed by local and out-of-town citizens toward the fund and this money will be invested in defense bonds.

Weaver added, however, that the association will renew its campaign for additional cash until enough is raised to start the project.

Althea Birchard, Explosion Victim, Leaves Hospital

Condition of Only Remaining Patient Is Reported "Good"

Only one victim of the North Centre street explosion remains under hospital care with the discharge of Miss Althea Birchard, 29, 789 Fayette street.

Miss Birchard, who suffered shock, cuts and bruises in the blast, has been under the care of a special nurse in Allegany hospital. She was discharged yesterday and will leave the hospital today.

G. R. Lipscomb, 70, St. George, W. Va., who suffered from shock, severe cuts about the face and hands and cuts, was discharged yesterday from Allegany hospital.

The remaining victim, Theodore Herschberger, 53, Cresaptown, who suffered internal injuries, a fractured right leg and burns, was in a critical condition for some time following an emergency operation, but is now in a "good" condition in Memorial hospital.

Mrs. Catherine Skakinsky, 33, and Miss Mary Muha, 27, both of Detroit, injured Sunday morning west of Town hill, Route 40 are reported by Allegany hospital attaches to be "resting as comfortable as can be expected."

One of the four victims of the automobile accident on the Bedford road Oct. 19, Mrs. Thomas Richards, Rochester, Pa., left Allegany hospital Sunday. Her husband's condition is "good" as is Mrs. Raymond Newlin. Raymond Newlin's condition was "unchanged."

Medical Arts Pharmacy, Blasted Out Oct. 2, Will Locate on Liberty Street

Blasted out of business on North Centre street by the explosion Thursday, October 2, Ivan Lichtenstein is now having the building at 33 North Liberty street remodeled for the new location of the Medical Arts Pharmacy, which will be open for business in about ten days.

The drug store will be located on the first floor and a stock room on the second floor in the building formerly occupied by Martin's, Inc. Lichtenstein took an $8,000 loss on stock and fixtures when the explosion damaged his North Centre street store. Approximately $1,500 worth of equipment was salvaged including fluorescent lights. The veteran pharmacist says that everything in the North Centre street store was new but the cash register and safe.

Two Seek Beer Licenses, Transfer Is Approved

Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, has been granted permission in circuit court to transfer its club liquor license from 170 Baltimore street to its new quarters at 205 Union street.

An application for a Class D light beer license was filed by Annie Hayes for premises at 16 Broadway, Frostburg, and John C. Coughenour asked transfer of the Class D light beer license now held by Clara Eckendorff for the same premises at 249 North Mechanic street.

Pupils Go to W. Va.

In the meantime, it was brought out at yesterday's hearing, many of the Hutton children have been paying to attend school in nearby West Virginia rather than go to Crellin.

Plaintiffs in the mandamus suit were Brydon Hardesty, Edgel Serno, Paul Markley, Frank Hardesty, Fred Hardesty, Clayton Slabaugh and J. William Lewis. The suit named as defendants W. W. Dawson, Stewart Hamill and Earl Guard, members of the county school board, and F. E. Rathbun, county superintendent of schools.

The case attracted widespread attention throughout the state, and the courtroom was crowded by interested spectators yesterday.

Flue Fire Extinguished

A flue fire at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 207 Oldtown road, was put out by South End Fire Company at 10:20 o'clock yesterday morning.

Hutton Residents Win and Lose In Court Battle

School Must Be Built, but Board May Close It, Jurist Holds

The Garrett County Board of Education must erect a new school building in the little community of Hutton as required by an act of the 1941 legislature, but it may close the school immediately after its construction and order the transportation of its pupils elsewhere, as authorized by a 1916 law, Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan ruled in effect yesterday.

Judge Sloan's ruling was handed down after a hearing in the Garrett county circuit court at Oakland on a petition for a writ of mandamus sought by Hutton residents to compel the county board to comply with the 1941 act and build a school to replace the one destroyed by fire two years ago.

The school board demurred to the action, contending that the 1941 status was unconstitutional because it conflicts with the general school law giving the board discretionary power concerning certain matters, including the question of school consolidation.

Demurrer Over-Ruled

The jurist, after hearing arguments by Charles G. Watson, of Cumberland and Frostburg, attorney for the petitioners, and A. T. Matthews, of Oakland, counsel for the board, over-ruled this demurrer.

The school board then immediately filed an answer to the petition and presented witnesses to show that the board had complied with the act by submitting plans for the Hutton structure to the state superintendent of schools for his approval a month ago, but subsequent to the filing of the suit.

In the light of this evidence, Judge Sloan dismissed the petition for the writ of mandamus on the ground that the board had already taken the action which the writ was intended to enforce. He left little doubt, however, that the 1941 statute must be complied with, although pointing out that this law in no way prevents the school board from again carrying out the principle of school consolidation authorized by the general school law of 1916.

The opinion points out that under the 1941 statute and also earlier laws, the county board of education must submit plans for school buildings to the state superintendent of schools for approval.

Up to State Superintendent

"Until plans are approved," Judge Sloan said, "there is no responsibility upon the part of the county board of education or its members to do anything about replacing the school."

The jurist went on to note that the next step, therefore, is up to the state superintendent, and the court order states explicitly that "the cannot pigeon-hole these plans and refuse to act at all" because of the authority vested in the county board "to consolidate schools, whenever in their judgment it is practicable, and arrange for the transportation of the pupils to a consolidated school."

"This is a matter of policy that has not been affected" by the 1941 act, the opinion goes on, "but it is still incumbent upon the state superintendent of schools to act on this application and plan, regardless of the question of policy involved."

"It simply means that at any time after the school is built, so long as Section 50 [of Article 77 of Chapter 506, Acts of 1916] is in force, the board of school commissioners will have the same power after the school is built as they have before."

May Close School Immediately

In other words, the jurist held that under the discretionary power of the board to consolidate schools, it may close the newly-built structure and order the pupils transported to some other school.

The court fight followed the destruction by fire of the Hutton school two years ago. The forty-odd pupils of the school were transported to the school at Crellin, two miles away, with the understanding, according to the Hutton petitioners, that a new school would be built.

When the board decided to consolidate the Hutton school permanently with the Crellin school, the Hutton residents refused to send their children to Crellin, and at their request, Senator Clifford Friend, of Garrett county, introduced a bill in the 1941 legislature making construction of a new school at Hutton mandatory.

Plaintiffs in the mandamus suit were Brydon Hardesty, Edgel Serno, Paul Markley, Frank Hardesty, Fred Hardesty, Clayton Slabaugh and J. William Lewis. The suit named as defendants W. W
